SENATOR CALLS FOR UN ACTION ON ARMS LIMIT

Connally Demands Consideration of Problem at This Session of General Assembly.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 29 — Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex) today demanded that the United Nations take action on an arms reduction plan at the current session of the general assembly and cautioned against any move to sidetrack the atomic energy commission.

Welcoming the surprise Soviet agreement to international inspections in the field of arms and atom bomb, Connally said in the light of statements by Joseph Stalin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that he hoped it would be possible now for the atomic commission to end its stalemate and reach unanimous agreement on a system of direct international control of atomic energy with effective safeguards."

Connally, speaking before the assembly's political committee in a booming voice, laid down the United States position on general disarmament, under eight points:

1. The U. S. desires that really effective action be taken by this assembly with respect to the general reduction of armaments.

2. The U. S. attaches great importance to the necessity for reaching agreement in the atomic energy commission with the utmost dispatch on specific proposals to control the use of atomic energy.

3. The U. S. also attaches great importance to the elimination of other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

4. The U. S. must never again make the mistake of disarming unilaterally. Disarmament must be multilateral and it must be progressive.

5. The United Nations must go further than the mere outlawing of the use of deadly weapons if it is to protect peace-loving states against the use of such weapons by aggressor nations.

6. Effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violation and evasion are an absolutely essential part of any effective disarmament plan.

7. Experience has clearly demonstrated that without an effective system of collective security in accordance with the UN charter, extensive disarmament would be both impractical and unsafe."

8. Consequently, any plans for the reduction of armaments must

Marion Fuel Meeting Set

Emergency Group To Consider Local Coal Situation Tonight.

An emergency fuel committee, appointed by Mayor Harry L. Dowler Tuesday when city officials and retail merchants acted to abide by the government's emergency orders for light and power curtailment in the nation-wide coal-conserving program, will meet tonight in the mayor's office to discuss further means of fuel conservation here.

The committee includes Ben T. Wiant, Robert T. Mason, E. E. Holt, Ellis Oller, Carroll Davidson, Charles Buente, Rev. Fr. W. J. Spickerman and Rev. R. W. Faulkner.

Meanwhile Marion's coal supply continues to dwindle. Coal dealers estimate there are only about 1,000 tons of lump coal and 500 tons of stoker coal left in the city and they are selling only to persons having less than a 10-day supply.

Mayor Dowler has appealed to Harold Smith, area district manager, solid fuels administration, Cleveland, for an emergency supply of coal for domestic use here, but said today he had received no reply.

OUTSTANDING ARMY AND LAW CAREER ENDS

Death Takes Former City Solicitor Who Won Honors in World War I.

George T. Geran, 68, Marion attorney and former city solicitor who achieved distinction in military service, died suddenly of a heart attack at 6:45 a. m. today in his home at 551 South Vine street.

He was captain of Marion's D company, 166th Ohio Infantry, in service on the Mexican border in 1914 and later in the first World War. In recognition of his service he was made a major in the final months of World War I. The 166th Infantry was a part of 42nd Division, which was under command of Brigadier General Douglas McArthur, famed leader of the Pacific forces in World War II.

Major Geran was one of the founders of the American Legion, having been in Paris at the time of its organization, and was one of the signers of its charter.

Mr. Geran, who was 68, had not been well earlier in the year, but had improved and was in apparent good health and at his office Wednesday.

Yesterday with Mrs. Geran and their son, Dan, he spent the Thanksgiving holiday with Mrs. Geran's brother, Lyman Turner and family of Ada. Dan remained at his uncle's home for the school holiday.

Mr. Geran attended to a number of cases in his office Wednesday and this morning was to have tried a case in common pleas court. He seemed in his usual health this morning and in response to a question from Mrs. Geran, said that he felt fine.

A few minutes later when he failed to continue the conversation Mrs. Geran discovered he was ill. He died before a physician reached the home.

A resident of Marion since early in 1900 Mr. Geran served as city solicitor and was active in legal and political life of the city and county.

It was his military career, particularly with the Rainbow division in World War I, which not only brought honor to himself but to the community as well.

Served With Beightler

In an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus, Major General Robert S. Beightler, commanding general of the Fifth Service Command, expressed regret over the news of Mr. Geran's death. The two served in the same regiment during most of the war, the general recalled.

Notable Record

The record of the Rainbow Division is one of the most notable made by American troops in the first World war and Mr. Geran and his men figured actively in establishing that record.

From Feb. 22, 1918, when the division entered the front line for the first time, until the hour the Armistice arrived on Nov. 11 of the same year, these troops were almost continuously in the midst of battle.

Mr. Geran remained as captain of D Company until May, when he was commissioned as major and placed in command of the second battalion of the 166th Infantry. The scenes of his service and that of the Marion company were in the same territory throughout the remaining months.

Five bars which appear in the Rainbow division insignia eloquently symbolize the strenuous and brilliant service rendered by these soldiers in their more than eight months of almost continuous campaigning at the front. The war department allows the use of one bar for each major engagement in which a division participated. Only one other American division, the First, has the honor of being in the five-bar class.

The five worn by the Rainbow Division veterans are for this service record: One for four months of trench service; and one each for participation in battles of the Champagne sector, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne.

Sees Early Start

When the 166th Infantry went into the front line on Feb. 22, 1918, it earned the distinction of being one of the first American units to face the enemy in actual combat. Its opening service was in the trenches in the Vosges mountains in the Lorraine sector, where it remained until June.

From there the regiment was transferred to the Champagne sector on the line between Verdun

LAY 53 DEATHS TO BLUEBEARD

20-Year Crime Career of German Revealed; Victims Mostly Women.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 29—The murder career of a German "Bluebeard" who confessed to killing 53 persons, including 49 women, is depicted in German police files revealed today. Over a period of 20 years he killed with club, knife and noose.

The Nazis hushed up the whole story—including the death of the rapist-murderer in a prison in Vienna April 8, 1944, after he had been subjected to experiments by German doctors.

A file which fills a bookcase two yards high and one and one-half yards wide in criminal police headquarters yielded the story of Bruno Luedtke, laborer, who committed his first murder at the age of 16.

Luedtke, a tall, low-browed man, was arrested in 1943 as a suspect in the murder of a Berlin widow, Frieda Roesner, who was found beaten to death and raped in her lodgings. Luedtke had been seen entering the house to deliver laundry. The police records state that Luedtke confessed he killed Mrs. Roesner and when he was confronted with a list of unsolved slayings, blandly said:

"Yes, I not only committed this murder, but many of them — about 50. Practically all were women. Only when forced to do so did I also kill their husbands."

Police were at first inclined to dismiss this, the records said, but when they conducted him to the scenes of many crimes he accurately reenacted them.

Sometimes he fell upon his victims in woods or fields, but more frequently trapped them in their homes. Sometimes he broke in at night and if he then encountered the husband, he slew him too. There were four such double murders.

Police said he never used a gun but usually a club or knife and sometimes an electric cord for a noose.

Police records said he was sterilized in Vienna and made the subject of further medical experiments, which may have caused his death.

COURT RULES LEADER MUST STAND TRIAL

Goldsborough Also Upholds Right To Enjoin Walkout of Unionists.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ordered John L. Lewis to trial on contempt charges today and upheld the court's right to enjoin a walkout in the soft coal mines despite federal anti-injunction laws.

Overruling Lewis' motion for dismissal of the contempt action brought by the government, Goldsborough declared:

"The Norris-La Guardia act did not and does not apply, and the court has the same rights as it had prior to passage of the Norris-La Guardia act."

Goldsborough said his court had the right to enjoin "a labor union which was about to do something against the good of the public and the union itself."

Lewis and his United Mine Workers contended that the Norris-LaGuardia act, curbing the use of restraining orders and injunctions in labor disputes, nullified Goldsborough's returning order of Nov. 18 and was grounds for dismissal of the whole contempt of court action, saying Lewis had the right to ignore it.

Government attorneys on the other hand contended the law did not apply where the government itself was acting as operator of the 3,300 soft coal mines seized during another crippling strike last spring.

Cuts Argument Short

Goldsborough's ruling cut short a day and half of argument by attorneys for Lewis that the court lack authority to restrain the UMW from terminating its government contract. This notice by Lewis was followed by a walkout of 400,000 miners.

"The court repeats," Goldsborough said, "that this proceeding was for the sole purpose of maintaining the status quo in this dispute."

Before handing down his decision the judge had remarked that Lewis in effect had "pleaded guilty" to contempt by refusing to obey the court's order to keep the coal contract in force.

This was promptly challenged by one of Lewis' lawyers, T. C. Townsend, who said:

"He hasn't entered any plea of guilty, your honor."

After some argument over legal technicalities, the judge ruled:

"The motion to discharge and vacate the motion is overruled."

He then called a five minute recess. Chief Government Counsel John F. Sonnett announced the government was ready to present its first witness against Lewis—Navy Captain N. H. Collisson, federal coal mines administrator.

After the recess, court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. (EST).

In his statement leading up to dismissal of the UMW motion, Goldsborough declared the court had a right to enjoin "a labor union which was about to do something against the good of the public and the union itself."

Lewis Rarely Speaks

Today's session opened with a renewed defense attempt to win dismissal of the contempt action against Lewis, who as before, sat with jaw upthrust, rarely speaking to his 10-man legal battery.

Through Attorney Edmund Burke, Lewis claimed the government's case actually is a criminal action instead of a civil proceeding, as designated, and therefore should be thrown out.

On this argument, too, the judge interrupted to say:

"The restraining order was not issued for the purpose of punishing a contempt of the Smith-Connally act, (which forbids strikes against the government), but for the purpose of letting the court decide whether the coal contract with the government could be terminated."

"Then it is not a punitive proceeding, sir?" Burke inquired.

"It is exactly what I said it was," Goldsborough declared.

He also told Burke:

"If you know the exact difference between a civil and a criminal contempt, you are the only person in the United States who does."

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, chief government counsel, then announced:

"We are prepared to meet the requirements for both a civil and criminal contempt action."

Strike in Ninth Day

As the paralyzing strike entered its ninth day, a rising tide of unemployment left at least 90,000 idle in other industries directly affected by the walkout, almost darkened cities in more than a score of states, and passenger service on coal-burning railroads was sharply curtailed.

Steel fabricators predicted wholesale layoffs hitting 100,000

REPORT SOVIET PULLS TROOPS

Moscow Said To Be Making Heavy Withdrawals from Germany.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 29 — Official American and informed German sources here said today that Soviet troops were engaged in large-scale redeployment movements in the Russian occupation zone of Germany.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, acting American deputy military governor, said Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander in chief in Germany, had informed American commanders the troop movements were of such a scale to utilize most of the Soviet zone's transport facilities.

"We believe that the Russians are moving some of their troops back to Russia as Marshal Sokolovsky informed Gen. Joseph T. McNarney," Keating said.

McNarney told reporters at a recent press conference that Sokolovsky had informed him the troop movement would continue for some weeks and that because of demands upon transport, it would be impossible for the Russians to admit any American correspondents for a tour of their zone until the New Year.

A German correspondent recently returned from Thuringia, said the Soviet troop movement there was "something terrific."

"However," he added, "the Russians haven't announced anything officially so nobody knows just what the new disposition will be."

There was no authoritative information here on whether Russian redeployment or demobilization of any considerable extent was occurring in territories east of Germany.

However, some Russian-controlled newspapers here today ran on their front pages a Soviet agency dispatch from Belgrade, reporting that Premier Marshal Tito had ordered a sizeable demobilization of Yugoslav forces.

An American intelligence officer said that "despite all sorts of rumors and reports" from unofficial sources there has not yet been any visible evidence of reduction of the soviet forces in Berlin.

"If the Russians are really making big-scale withdrawal of their forces we'll hear about it officially with considerable fanfare, I believe," this officer added. "The Russians certainly would capitalize on it in a United Nations assembly debate on disarmament."

Crowd Estimated at 10,000 Lines Streets To See Santa Parade Open Yule Season

An estimated 10,000 persons, including hundreds of school and pre-school boys and girls, lined the streets of downtown Marion at noon today to greet Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus and to witness the city's 1946 Christmas parade.

Old Santa and his wife rode at the end of the three-block-long parade, waving to the boys and girls from their sleigh atop a big red and white float. When his float pulled up in front of the court house, he and Mrs. Santa climbed down to shake hands with the hundreds of small fry who poured out into the street, stood on the shoulders of their parents or peeped through a tiny hole in the crowd for a glimpse at the old fellow.

The parade, which many witnesses proclaimed the best Marion has had since before the war, stretched for three blocks down the street and included four school bands, six floats, 51 boy scouts carrying flags of the United Nations and 18 story book characters.

The school bands were the Harding High, Radnor, Caledonia and Richwood.

The six floats were the Santa float, the patriotic float, three 4-H club floats and the style revue float. The style revue float paraded without attendants because gowns to be worn by the girls failed to arrive.

Morral Float Wins

Four-H club floats included those entered by the Morral boys, the Claridon boys and the Green Camp girls. The Morral Boys float was judged winner of the three by Judges Kenneth Staats, George Edgcomb and B. M. Burke preceding the prade. The float carried a Christmas scene, showing a fireplace, a Santa Claus, a Christmas tree, toys and a little girl in bed. The Claridon boys float carried a barnyard scene and the Green Camp float a chorus of girls singing Christmas carols.

The parade moved from the Ohio Public Service Co.'s terminal building on West Center street east to Main street, south on Main street to Church street, east on Church to State street, north on State to Center, west on Center to the courthouse and north on Main to the first alley.

Parade Line-up

Order of the parade was as follows: Harding High school band, style revue float, Richwood band, Boy Scouts, patriotic float, Radnor band, Claridon 4-H float, Morral 4-H float, Green Camp 4-H float, Caledonia band, a bicycle brigade and Mr. and Mrs.

AT LEAST 63 KILLED IN U. S. HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents cost the lives of at least 63 persons—more than the toll estimated by the National Safety Council—as the nation observed Thanksgiving yesterday. Violent deaths from miscellaneous causes totaled 13.

The safety council, which today reported 3,210 traffic fatalities in October and a total of 27,520 for the first 10 months of 1946, had estimated 50 persons would die in motor mishaps on the holiday. It said, however, that normally 110 persons were killed in traffic on a November Thursday, including deaths occurring later from injuries suffered that day.

15th Annual Presentation Of "The Messiah" Set for Sunday

For the fifteenth Yuletide season, the Marion Civic chorus will present as a gift to Marion a performance of the sacred oratorio "The Messiah," by Georg Friedrich Handel. The music will be sung Sunday night in Epworth Methodist church by the chorus composed of members of church choirs and other music organizations of the city and three soloists, with the chorus work under the direction of Prof. Rexford Keller, head of the music department of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware. Time of the performance will be 8:15.

Soloists will be Mrs. Madeline Dunlop Assenheimer of Upper Sandusky, soprano, Mrs. Esther Hale of Marion, contralto, and Joseph A. Schaffe of Cleveland, tenor. Organist will be Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, piano accompanist, Miss Rosaline Manno, and string ensemble accompaniment will be by Romine Hamilton, George Wolfe, Martha Bowlus, and Rachael Reudebush, all of Ohio Wesleyan. Mrs. Dorothy B. Jennings is assistant pianist and Mrs. Eliza T. Williams, assistant organist.

Program Details

Nine choruses will be sung, together with 16 airs and recitatives by the vocal soloists, organ prelude, solo and offertory, and overture by string ensemble. Rev. R. W. Faulkner will give the invocation, Dr. V. E. Bosler, host

CHARGES POLICE GAVE TIP TO BLOCK RAID

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 29—Residents of suburban Campbell today had the pledge of Sheriff Robert E. Elser that racketeers and slot machines would be wiped out "here even if I had to do it alone."

Elser accused Campbell police of "tipping off" owners of establishments there of raids Wednesday night in which six men were arrested and five slot machines confiscated in raiding expeditions. The sheriff's law enforcement drive was continued here yesterday when five machines were smashed at two local clubs.

"The tip-off on the raids came from within your own police force," Elser told Campbell Safety Director John Grdic, and added: "That town is going to be cleaned up if I have to do it alone. I'll run those racketeers out of there."

A sheriff's party was enroute to raid a Campbell establishment Wednesday night when Deputy Sheriff Otis Heldman noticed a local police cruiser driving a short distance ahead of the raiding auto, Elser said.

Heldman heard a Campbell policemen "yell something" at a man entering the building which was to be raided and deputies attempted to block off the police cruiser, the sheriff reported. The Campbell auto fled but the raid was successful, he added.

BYRD SHIPS LOAD ANTARCTIC SUPPLIES

By The Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 29—Old and new extremes in modes of polar transportation—sled dogs and airplanes—are being loaded here aboard ships of the Byrd expedition, which will sail Monday for the antarctic.

Aboard the group command ship, Mt. Olympus, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship, are 27 huskies, plus five pups, whelped since the sled dogs were rounded up in Labrador, Quebec and New England.

Three patrol bombers, two helicopters and a scout observation plane have been loaded aboard the seaplane tender Pine Island and one helicopter and one Grumman amphibian aboard the Coast Guard icebreaker North Wind. Other ships sailing from Norfolk are the destroyer Brownson and the oiler Canisteo.

Also being loaded on the ships are large quantities of scientific and photographic equipment and sufficient foodstuffs to last eight months. Expedition spokesmen said figures were not available on the amount of supplies on all the ships but that the storerooms of the Mt. Olympus were filled to bursting with such items as:

Thirty-five thousand pounds of beef, 5,000 pounds of pork loin, 20,000 pounds of white potatoes, 120,000 pounds of flour, one pound per person per day; 6,000 pounds of chicken, one meal per week for four months;

Eight thousand pounds of butter, enough for four months, after which canned butter will be eaten.

First Operation On Blue Baby 2 Years Ago

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov 29—Two years ago today, little Miss "EMS" was wheeled into the surgical amphitheater at the Johns Hopkins hospital for a delicate operation to correct an insufficient flow of blood into her lungs

"EMS"—her identity is a medical secret—died, but the operation performed 270 times since that first attempt, has given new hope to the parents of 'blue' babies throughout the world

The surgical technique, developed by Dr. Alfred Blalock and Dr Helen B Taussig, head of the Children's Cardiac clinic has been successful in about 80 per cent of the cases

Each 'blue' baby is born with a mal-formed heart which prevents the blood from getting enough oxygen Without the operation, virtually all are doomed to semi-invalidism and early death

G.O.P. Gets Second Choice on Offices

WASHINGTON, Nov 29—Despite their brand new 51-to-45 majority, senate Republicans found themselves still playing second fiddle today when it came to a choice of offices on Capitol Hill

Some of the GOP freshmen elected to their first terms November 5 were surprised when they learned Senator McKellar, the Tennessee Democrat, still has first pick

A few were downright irritated to discover that Democrats, in fact, have 25 choices out of the first 30 suites

within a week in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio

But reports from the coal fields indicated that the miners had not yet begun to draw in their belts Turkey or duck graced most Thanksgiving day tables in Pennsylvania mining communities

The proposal for a truce in the economy-sapping crisis came from Edward R Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers association

He told a reporter that if Lewis would call the 400,000 miners back to work the owners of the federally-seized mines would be 'very happy' to discuss contract terms with the union chief

"We are even willing to talk about a shorter hour week," Burke said yesterday

A reduction of the miners' present 54-hour week with no loss in pay has been reported to be one aim behind the United Mine Workers stand against the government Lewis has not said publicly what he wanted when he demanded that the government reopen its contract with UMW.

Makes No Comment

Lewis did not volunteer any comment on the Burke proposal Nobody answered the telephone at his home in nearby Alexandria and he presumably spent Thanksgiving elsewhere after Wednesday's court session in which the government presented its case against him

Lewis contends he was within his legal rights in disregarding a court order to withdraw his "termination" of the United Mine Workers' contract with the government.

However, Judge Goldsborough commented from the bench Wednesday that no matter how valid the question of his right to direct Lewis to withdraw the termination, the union chief was still required to obey the court order.

URGENT MESSAGE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

We recommend that everyone in Marion take the present coal crisis seriously and co-operate with Mayor H. A. Dowler's Emergency Fuel Committee in their efforts to conserve fuel, by following their suggestions.

However —

To avoid further inconvenience and expensive repair bills we urge our customers to take every precaution to prevent damage to their water pipes and other plumbing fixtures when temperatures are lowered.

We Suggest —

1. Wrap exposed water pipes with old newspapers, rags or burlap.
2. Make basement snug. Repair broken window panes, stuff cracks in walls around windows and doors which admit cold air.
3. If fire is allowed to go out at night be sure to turn off water in building and drain pipes.
4. Our employees will be glad to offer further advice in specific cases and stand ready to be of service if needed.

Court Ruling Made On Children's Home For Morrow County

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD—Morrow county commissioners must establish a children's home in Morrow county in order to carry out the terms of the will of the late Charles Ellsworth Parsons, according to a ruling made this week by Common Pleas Judge Leland Rutherford in the action of Ethel Elder, a taxpayer, against McKinley Thomas and the Morrow county commissioners.

In a ten page ruling on the action for clarification of the will's terms Judge Rutherford also stated that such a home need not be established on the 80 acre Troy township farm left to the county by Parsons.

Parsons, who died Sept. 8, 1941, left his farm for a home for disabled or needy children in memory of his wife, Isadora Davis Parsons. The residue of the estate was to be used to maintain the home.

The Morrow county commissioners joined Miss Elder in the clarification action. In her petition Miss Elder asked whether under the provisions of the will the home must be constructed on said farm or whether the proceeds of said farm and stocks, bonds and money are to be used to construct a home elsewhere. The court found that the farm might be sold for the highest price obtainable on the order of the court and that the proceeds could be used for a home at such a location in the county as the commissioners might term desirable.

The second question asked on the petition was whether or not the county commissioners might reject the bequest and turn the property and revenue over to the Rural Mail Carriers association to whom it was to go if the commissioners failed to accept under the terms of the will. They did accept the property on May 4, 1942.

The court ruled that as long as the said bequest stands as accepted by the commissioners they have an obligation to act in good faith and carry out the terms of the will as promptly as is reasonably profitable.

Former Hardin County Man Dies in DeGraff

Special to The Star

KENTON, Nov. 29—Curtis Maddin, 69, former Hardin county resident who resided with his brother in DeGraff, O., died of complications Tuesday.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Friday at the Price funeral home in Kenton. Burial was made in Grove cemetery at Kenton.

Mr. Maddin is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Fred Bair of Lima; Mrs. Arthur Appleman of Kenton; Mrs. Lloyd Kindle of Dunkirk; and Mary Helen Elbin of Columbus. A son, Melvin, lives at New Castle, Ind.

Frisked By X-Ray, Would-Be Smugglers Fear "Magic Eye"

TOURISTS returning to U. S. from a visit to Mexico line up for inspection by the "Inspectoscope" Magic Eye.

By TED McKENNA
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The "inspectoscope," an X-ray and fluoroscopic arrangement, is doing more than its share in curbing smuggling at the international border near San Ysidro, 16 miles south of here.

The machine, which detects the presence of contraband goods on persons crossing the line by looking right through their clothes, was invented during the war by Henry Sicular, San Francisco scientist.

Robert E. Noonan, U. S. collector of customs here, says the "inspectoscope," in operation since July, 1945, has more than paid for itself in collecting fines on objects which otherwise would not have been "declared" to customs inspectors for duty payment.

Located just outside the customs house at San Ysidro, the outfit looks like a couple of telephone booths set about four feet apart.

The "inspectoscope" screen, in one booth, is operated by a foot pedal, which, when impressed, shows first a head and shoulders view, then a midsection picture and finally a view of the lower extremities. As the pedal is pressed, each view lasts only six seconds, to avoid injury from the rays, Noonan says.

If the tourist has a bottle or jewelry or narcotics on his body, it can be seen on the screen and identified as such. In a recent examination, a man was found to be carrying a bottle of liquor up his sleeve, and a woman was concealing six cans of opium in her girdle.

Keys in a man's pocket may be seen so clearly that they may be counted, and the same with cigarets in a package, according to Noonan. Pens, pencils and wallets are easily identifiable.

Nearly 30,000 persons have passed this magic eye since its installation, and some 2,000 seizures have been made, Noonan said.

About 300 an hour can be run through the "inspectoscope," as against four per hour by the old method of having a suspect undress, submit to search and don clothing again.

The machine is not run at any set period of the day. At any moment the inspectors may order all persons crossing the border on foot or in autos, to go through the machine.

Noonan says the greatest good comes from the machine's deterrent powers. Knowledge that the machine is there has stopped many a would-be smuggler and the number of declarations has risen "considerably."

CAPITOL HILL MAPS TRUMAN STRATEGY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—President Truman reportedly is being urged by some Capitol Hill friends to center his fire on a few major issues in recommendations to the new Republican-controlled congress.

Several influential Democrats said privately they hoped Mr. Truman would produce middle-of-the-road proposals for legislation on labor, housing, taxes and expenditures, the military draft and possibly Army-Navy merger.

They would prefer he not attempt to cover the broad field of suggestions he made to the last congress.

At that time Mr. Truman asked a legislative branch nominally controlled by the Democrats to act on 21 separate proposals. Republicans and anti-administration Democrats joined in smacking down many of them and altering others out of recognizable form.

With the Republicans now in control of the legislative machinery many of the Democrats think it would be wise for the President to present his ideas only on the top issues.

One of these is likely to be labor control legislation, on which the congressional approach probably will be affected vitally by whether the coal mines still are idle when the legislators meet Jan. 3.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) said he hoped White House recommendations would be forthcoming for "moderate" revisions in the labor laws, to provide the public with greater protection against production stoppages without sacrificing labor's rights.

"I am afraid that there will be some rather drastic measures offered in this congress in that field," Lucas told a reporter. "I think the President owes it to himself to make clear his position, and that of the party, before the shooting starts."

H. W. Baker, Former Dunquat Resident, Dies

Harry W. Baker, 81, formerly of Dunquat, died in the home of a son, Leslie Baker, east of Melmore, at 11 a. m. Wednesday. He had been in failing health the last three years and suffered a stroke last Friday. Born Oct. 15, 1865 in Delaware, he was a son of Joseph and Isabelle Breese Baker. Sept. 22, 1886, he married Anna Elizabeth Shank in Wyandot county. He was a retired carpenter, and made his home the last three years at the residence of the son. Surviving are his widow, the son in whose home he died, three other children, Elroy Baker of near Lodi, and Mrs. Howard Seipp and Ira Baker, both of Tiffin, four grandchildren, four step-grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, a half-sister, Mrs. Charles Welch of Port Clinton, and a half-brother, Jesse Eckleberry of Sycamore. Another son, Leighton Baker, three sisters and a brother preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Myers funeral home in Tiffin and burial will be in Nevada cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

NEW BATTLE RAGES IN DUTCH ISLANDS

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Java Nov 29—New fighting was reported today to have broken out between Indonesian Republicans and Dutch forces, ending a short-lived truce in the 15-month-long East Indies revolution

Only two weeks ago delegates of the two governments initialed a provisional agreement for an independent Indonesia in a lasting union with the Netherlands

The Indonesian information ministry said hostilities, begun yesterday, were under way on all fronts and threatened to become large scale Dutch tanks are moving toward Bekassi, 15 miles southeast of here, the announcement said, and the army of the Indonesian republic has cancelled all leaves.

The clashes were reported to have been touched off by Indonesian refusal to accept a Dutch army ruling allowing no Republican soldiers within two kilometers (about one and a quarter miles) of allied perimeters.

A Dutch army spokesman however, said that while the military situation in Java had gradually been deteriorating in the last two months there was no truth in the Indonesian reports that fighting had broken out on all points

Streamlined Pig To Be Improved Eating

By The United Press

PORTLAND Ore—A new figure is being developed—long and svelte, with hardly any fat and it will make your mouth water, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The new shape won't get any billing in Hollywood, but the hog of the future will provide more roast loin of pork and better bacon, animal husbandry experts say on the basis of research being conducted by the department at Beltsville, Md

The new pig "shape" is being developed from the Landrace hog of Denmark Breeders say they are being successful in eliminating two shortcomings of the breed—its tenency to be too lean and the fact its skin is too white and tender.

A greater proportion of the improved Landrace pig's weight is deposited in the high priced cuts—the ham, loin, bacon and shoulder butt, the department says.

Being Lewised

THERE has come to be in this country a condition of existence related to the moods and whims of one man, John L. Lewis. The condition is familiar. Its details are part of the background against which an entire generation of American children has been growing up. They think John L. Lewis is the most powerful man in the country.

Pictures of John L. Lewis are in all the newspapers. His name is on every tongue. What will he do? What will the government do? What will the people do? Most of all, what will the people do? No other man has power to make the people wonder what they will do.

John L. Lewis finally decides what he will do. The government quickly makes what adjustments it can to this momentous decision one man has reached. It begins to tell the people what they must do because the government itself has been able to do nothing. The people must make the best of things.

The people must accommodate themselves to the fact there will be a shortage of coal. There will be a shortage because John L. Lewis has willed it to be so. More pictures of John L. Lewis, scowling, looking formidable, looking like the kind of a man who can intimidate government. Also pictures of people looking helpless and government officials looking likewise.

Lights go out. Plans are cancelled and postponed. Freight slows down. School morale is shattered by reports that schools may close. Governors issue proclamations: Whereas John L. Lewis has seen fit to shut off the coal supply, therefore I do set my hand and seal etc. Which all adds up to doing without coal.

Pictures of coal miners huddled by radios in coal-country saloons, waiting for John L. Lewis to tell them whether they can go back to work—miners who dare not disobey his orders lest they be ruled out of their livelihood. Steel mills shutting down. All kinds of enterprise slowing down to a walk, waiting for John L. Lewis to decide whether it will be all right for the nation to survive, or whether he is tired of granting it reprieves and this time will carry out the threat of economic death which is his weapon.

Once more the United States is being Lewised. What will he do? What will the government do? What will the people do? Being Lewised is old stuff in the United States by this time, but there's still a lot of suspense in it. Sometime, John L. Lewis may find the tables turned and he will have to do the asking: What will the government do to me? What will the people do to me? What will I do?

Statistical Stuffing

THIS is a statistic to warm over with what is left of the Thanksgiving turkey:

That enough turkey meat was produced in this country this year to give every man, woman and child 4½ pounds, exclusive of dressing, potatoes, cranberry sauce and fixings.

That by bedtime Thanksgiving day all but one pound of this average share will have been eaten, leaving the other pound for the whole month of December.

That the turkey, the chicken and, to a much smaller degree, the duck have been the country's aces in the hole during a year of meat shortages. Despite all the chickens—and turkeys and ducks—consumed in 1946, the domesticated edible bird supply is still ample.

That if less of the 4½-pound supply of turkey had been eaten at one sitting, there would have been more turkey left to eat some other day, which would have been an excellent idea. Statistically or otherwise, 3½ pounds at once was too much.

It's in the Record

ONE detail marked for scrutiny by incoming Republicans is the so-called cultural relations program of the state department. This is the program that attempts to tell foreigners something about the United States over and above what they get from moving pictures and crime news. It is an effort to dispel the widespread impression abroad that all Americans either loll in the lap of luxury, or spend their time killing one another in approved gangster fashion.

It is claimed that cultural relations can be handled better by private enterprise. The United States, it is said, needs no government publicity department to keep its best foot forward. These are the stand-pat positions which have been taken in this argument ever since it began, during the war. There is one thing glaringly wrong with them.

The United States left the job to private enterprise up to World War II and never did spend enough money on cultural relations to make more than a dent in the impression left by motion pictures and the kind of news likeliest to be exported. It was to overcome ideas planted haphazardly that the government got into the business of telling something about the United States besides its gangster and divorce accomplishments. The incoming Republicans had better find something more important to scrutinize than the State Department's feeble attempt to get the American people a little good publicity to offset the bad.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Reading Between the "Seams" in the Coal Strike.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — The miners are being quoted in the newspapers as saying they do not know why John Lewis broke their highly favorable contract he extracted by political pressure from a sympathetic government only six months ago. He announced no list of demands for them. But they intend to follow him blindly, they say. This is their individually announced position.

Experts intimate with the problem who can read between the seams think they know what Lewis us up to. He is front-running for the CIO campaign to increase wages again. Last year, you will recall, he missed the same bus. The CIO auto and steel strike ran through the holiday period, but Lewis had a contract with the operators running until April 1. He did not get in on the CIO campaign but had to follow it, getting his raise at the end of May.

Now CIO has announced it is planning another wage raising campaign and Lewis acted before CIO could get the words out of its mouth. Last year's strike broke the government's "hold this line" campaign against inflation. Prices are still rising, but food is due to come down after the first of the year (government economists predicted within 60 days).

But Lewis planned, my inside informants tell me, to grab another wage increase and get away with it before congress reassembles in January. Thus he would leave CIO to face the music of congressional anti-strike legislation which is sure to arise.

That explanation is the only one which makes sense.

"One Basket" Chosen

To combat it, the government is in a somewhat weak position and not doing much to strengthen itself. The inside on that is the government decided to put its entire case in one basket, a wholly legal basket.

Obviously this will not do the job. The problem of the nation is to get coal, but even if the government wins on the line it has chosen, we may not get coal, for the miners say they will follow Lewis not only against the government, but against law, and will promote sympathy strikes if he is judged to have violated the law. That will not produce much coal, or cure the brownout, or answer the public necessities.

Whether Lewis violated the law is one thing. The nation needs coal. This coal is the primary thing from the consuming public standpoint. Of couse, Lewis must be tried. If his case goes to the supreme court, months might be spent in deciding his guilt of violation of the Smith- Connally Act, although the contempt case could be settled more promptly. Either conclusion may not heat the nation this winter.

As the blindness of the miners in proposing to follow Lewis is a main cause of the coal shortage, you would think the government would at least be in the midst now of a terrific campaign to educate the miners on the facts of inflation, the need for continuing its policies, the prospective brevity of the current food price increases, and so many other facts which expose the economic deficiency of the position Lewis has taken.

The government has said nary a word!

Suggested Solution

Personally I would think also that the government would have taken many steps by now to give the country coal. The government could do this economic justice if it set upon the task. It might not produce much as a start, but the start even of a trickle could eventually grow into a river. It would then not be impotent to Lewis.

Coal mining is not an occupation requiring long skill. Apprentice ship standards differ in the various states, some requiring only days of experience, others months. Indeed about a thousand tons of coal a day are even now being produced in Pennsylvania and there is an anti-Lewis union in Illinois, only one third of which went on strike.

Encouragement to expand this production is about the least you might expect. New machinery has been developed for the mining of coal more swiftly and this might be used, although it would take a man about as long to learn how to operate the machine as to wield a pick safely. The government has troops available to protect operations.

No if this strike is a campaign for another CIO national wage hiking move, so much the more does the government have the duty to protect its economic policy by economic action. Each day it argues in court, the public loses, as long as the strike is still on, and the nation is not getting coal.

Without Permanency

But even if Lewis wins a new contract settlement from the government, his victory can only be temporary. The contract can only run until the war powers act is repealed by congress or six months thereafter. Then the mines are to be turned back to private operation by the government and Lewis will have to negotiate an entirely new contract with the operators, who certainly will not give him as good a deal as he got from a politically minded government at the opening of a congressional campaign. In short, you are having all this coal trouble over a contract which can not last long.

He'll Have To Stay Out Of Chimneys

Newark, N. J., Santa Clauses are to be given daily inspection by the municipal health department.

Newark city fathers apparently fear lest Old Saint Nick be germ as well as gift-laden.

As if he didn't have enough trouble, what with the price of reindeer feed going up and the Elves Local N. 782 demanding more money, now Santa is to be subjected to the crowning indignity of having a bacteria count made in his beard.

Not that he'll bear the entire burden. Consider the plight of the parent faced with the task of providing a plausible explanation for the A, B or C rating which Santa will henceforth wear on his arm.

And even if Junior is a dull as well as a credulous child, sooner or later he's going to wonder about those department store ads: "Our Santa is the Cleanest in Town."

In time, I guess, we'll get used to it. But for a while one'll find it strange that Santa Claus smells, not of cedar and peppermint, but of antiseptics and disinfectant.

Congressional Pensions

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON — Government statisticians decline to hazard an estimate on how much pensions for members of congress defeated in the election will cost the taxpayers.

They say there are too many uncertain factors. Among them are how many retiring members desire to participate in the pension plan and how much they wish to contribute to the Civil Service Retirement Fund.

However, the amount won't be big money compared with other government expenditures. If as many as 1,000 ex-congressmen should some day draw an average pension of $4,000 a year, the annual cost would be only $1,000,000.

On Feb. 1, defeated members of the outgoing congress can begin drawing pensions provided they have reached the age of 62 and have completed at least six years of congressional service. They must make certain contributions to the retirement fund and file notice on or before Jan. 2 that they desire to participate in the pension plan.

Amounts Variable.

Yearly pensions, or annuities, for a retiring congressman range (in amount payable at age 62) from $1,465 to $7,500. The size of a pension depends upon two things: The amount the congressman cotributed to the Civil Service Retirement Fund and the length of his service.

To qualify for a pension a retiring member must contribute at least $2,716, which covers the last five years of his service. The amount of pension he gets for that contribution depends upon his total years of service.

For the miuimum six years service, pension payments start at $1,465 a year at age 62 and decrease slightly each year, amounting to $1,450 at age 75.

With a minimum contribution of $2,716, the pension for service since March 4, 1927, or almost 20 years, is $4,272 at age 62.

A retiring congressman may, if he desires, make a full contribution with interest to the retirement fund. His pension then is proportionately larger and remains the same each year that he draws it.

If he has served six years and contributes the full $3,145, his yearly pensions is $1,500. If he has served since March 4, 1929, or almost 18 years, a full contribution of $9,819 will bring him an annuity $4,458.

Examples Cited

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania is 71 years old and has served in the Senate 12 years. A minimum contribution of $2,716 would bring him a pension beginning at $2,652 and decreasing to $2,606 when he is 75 years old. If he should make a full contribution of $6,147 for his 12 years' service, he would get $3,000 a year for the remainder of his life.

Another casualty to the recent election is Rep. Andrew J. May of Kentucky. May is 71 and has been in the House almost 16 years. A contribution of $2,716 would bring him a pension starting at $3,376 a year and declining to $3,298 when he is 75.

Rep. Hatton Sumners of Texas, who did not seek reelection, has been in Congress since March 4, 1913. If he makes the minimum $2,716 contribution, his pension will begin at $6,220 and decline to $6,009.

New members of the Congress which convenes Jan. 3, may file a notice to participate in the retirement fund within six months after the date on which they take the oath of office.

After a member of Congress has obtained a retirement status, 6 per cent of his base pay is automatically deducted from his salary each pay period.

City Auditoriums Idle Part of Each Year.

MOST municipal auditoriums in major United States cities are operated at a loss. Their facilities lie idle an average total of almost four months a year, according to a recent survey cited by American Municipal Association.

The survey was made by a state-established board for the mayor of Indianapolis in order to provide facts on construction and operating costs of city auditoriums. Indianapolis citizens recently have been promoting inclusion of a municipal auditorium in the city's postwar public workers program.

While attesting the cultural and civic benefits of auditoriums, the board concluded that auditorium construction during the next few years was not enonomically feasible in Indianapolis. Construction of an auditorium seating 10,000 was estimated to cost nearly $10,000,000.

The board pointed out that among nine major cities with municipal auditoriums, use of these facilities averages about 200 days annually. New Orleans, and Kansas City, Mo., were the only cities reporting receipts from auditorium use sufficient to pay operating expenses.

Most-used civic auditoriums among major cities surveyed is Cleveland's, idle an average of 74 days a year. Nevertheless, it seldom pays its annual operating expenses from auditorium revenues. Many Cleveland citizens maintain, however, that the building more than makes up for its operating deficit by attracting conventions and convention business to the city.

Kansas City's civic auditorium gets most of its revenue in office rentals from a federal agency and thus pays its own operating costs without dependence on local taxpayers. Other cities with municipal auditoriums, all with seating capacities over 5,000 persons, are Grand Rapids, Memphis, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee. These units cost between two and ten million dollars apiece.

Difficulty of providing adequate parking facilities at the proposed cite was presented by Indianapolis boardmen as another reason for not building an auditorium. A capacity crowd of 11,000 would transport itself to the building in some 3,000 automobiles, traffic experts estimate. Either four city blocks or a four-deck parking garage would be needed to handle that many cars.

Second Free Port for U. S.

When the Port of New Orleans in 1947 opens its foreign trade zone, as recently authorized by the department of commerce, it will be the second "free port" area in the United States. Foreign Trade Zone No. 1 has been in operation at the Port of New York since early 1937.

Purpose of the foreign trade zone is to attract commerce from abroad that would be deterred by import tariffs. Forty or more free-port areas in Europe and Asia set the pattern for the United States in opening the New York Port zone at Stapleton. Staten Island, notes National Geographic Society.

Under legislation passed in 1934, the foreign trade zone is a segregated area in or adjacent to a port of entry, under federal supervision. Goods arriving from abroad may be immediately transshipped, or stored indefinitely for reshipment to a foreign country without paying import duties.

Imports may be sorted, cleaned, otherwise "manipulated" and repackaged for shipment. They may be combined with other goods of foreign or domestic manufacture. In the end, they may enter the United States, subject only to duties applying to their final form. The law forbids manufacturing and exhibiting in the zone.

Without benefit of tariff income, the zone is supported by charges for storage and handling services. Within the zone, for example, Swiss watch movements may be fixed into American cases, African diamonds may be expertly graded, South American nuts may be shelled and sorted, spirits and perfumes may be transferred from hogsheads to bottles. Such operations are accepted as manipulations, not manufacturing processes.

Zone No. 1 teemed with world trade soon after its opening. In 1941, it recorded 232 kinds of imports valued at 89 billion dollars from 70 countries. The war forced its removal to smaller piers in the North river, and cut its volume to one-third of the 1941 peak. The zone is now partially reestablished at Stapleton, where 92 acres of space are soon to be available.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Reasons for Gratitude

Thanksgiving 1946 may have struck you as gloomy and troublesome, but—

You were standing cold and hungry in a bleak New England winter, founding a new nation.

Probably you thought the holiday this year came in a mood of fear, apprehension and confusion, but—

You were not settling a new country on an empty stomach.

Mom felt jittery and blue as she stuffed the turkey and baked the pumpkin pies, but—

She knew the home was not surrounded by Indians.

Pop was pretty blue over the American scene on Thanksgiving 1946, but—

He knew he wouldn't have to break up the dinner and rush the family inside a stockade.

Americans were harrassed by strikes, threats of strikes and general tie-ups, but—

Their scalps were safe!

They were annoyed by monkey wrench tossers on all sides, but—

Wrenches were easier to dodge than Indian arrows!

John Q. Citizen was fed up with the arrogance of John L. Lewis, but—

Even John wasn't as tough as a Massachusetts winter in days of the Pilgrim Fathers.

Uncle Sam was nettled, peeved and sore over what he was being made to endure this November, but—

He could rejoice that he could get something besides squirrel soup and a little ground corn once a day by way of food.

You and I were worried by the defiance of government and the contempt for legal processes, but—

There was some cause for thanks in the fact we knew at no time during the day would we have to hold out in a blockhouse until cavalry arrived from the nearest Army fort.

Most Americans were worried stiff over the paralysis of industry and the general snafu everywhere, but—

Their feet weren't bound in bloody rags, they weren't starving and they couldn't hear any coyotes howling nearby.

The people of this country felt stymied by labor troubles, blitzed by confusion and shoved around by agitators, but—

Their highest luxury wasn't a raw potato, they hadn't come through a famine and they weren't swept by pestilence.

Yes, Thanksgiving 1946 was one in which a lot of us felt especially low, harassed, buffeted, perplexed and kicked in the pants, but—

No Indian raids impended, pop didn't have to carry a gun to church, there were no wolves around the backyard, a couple of cows to a town were not a luxury, no shrieking savages were apt to toss torches through the window, and above everything else, there was a general feeling that AMERICA WAS A GREAT COUNTRY, THAT ITS INSTITUTIONS WOULD WEATHER THE TEST AND THAT JOHN L. LEWIS WILL MEET HIS WATERLOO SOMEDAY!

Capital

The First National Bank of Readville, Pa., recently published this advertisement on the subject of capital:

"First of all, just what is capital? Well, capital is what you have left over after you've paid for a living. It's your savings account, your bonds, the home a fellow owns or his farm. An automobile is a form of capital. Capital is created when you adjust your living so that you have a surplus.

"Capital is used, principally, to buy tools which craftsmen use to produce more goods. A factory building is a tool, so is an intricate lathe or an automatic machine that may cost thousands of dollars."

Further perspective on the subject of capital is found in an annual report of General Foods Corp.

"Once there was a man who thought the public would buy a delicious and nourishing ready-cooked breakfast cereal. Some people laughed at his idea, but he had confidence and determination. He was successful. Through the years his idea built great factories to manufacture Post cereals. In the making and distributing of these products, thousands of new jobs were created. Many other men with faith and courage started the businesses that now form General Foods. Aided by investors and employes, they risked their savings and labor in the hope of earning a profit. Theirs was the spirit of American enterprise—the initiative and courage to balance the risk of loss against the prospect of gain, thus establishing and developing businesses that create the jobs essential to national prosperity. This is the spirit of all American industry under our system of voluntary enterprise. With proper incentives and with the support of public opinion, American enterprise can repeat in the future what it has accomplished in the past."

His Majesty's Formula

Back in the days when penmanship was an art, a gentleman was known by the ink he used.

He mixed his writing fluid with great care according to the formula of "His Majesty's stationers." Even to this day, this ink is known to authorities as a "very good formula."

The ink had a base of iron powder which left a well-nigh permanent impression. If it faded at all—as some inks do—the iron-base ink left a residue which reflected light and continued legible through generations.

This ink was used by the men who penned such documents as the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, still brightly legible today.

Most of the trouble over fading ink came after the 1870's. Dr. Thomas P. Martin of the Library of Congress manuscripts section, says. That's when wood pulp paper came into use, together with chemical inks.

Custom now dictates that all important documents and signatures shall be in what is known as "record ink"...a modern counterpart of His Majesty's formula.

Uses Radar in Whale Hunt To Find Meat for Human Use

By The United Press

LONDON—A 33-year-old scientist leading the expedition which set off for the Antarctic in the whale factory ship Balaena to hunt whales with radar.

The expedition has a two-fold purpose, firstly, to examine the possibilities of using lean whale meat for human consumption, secondly, to study the diving characteristics of whales to see if they will furnish any idea that can be utilized by the Royal Navy for its submarine craft.

The expedition, under the auspices of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, is led by Dr. R. A. M. Case, of the Royal Navy Physiological Laboratory.

Explaining Dr. Case has been studying the effects of high temperature humidity and pressure on submarine crews. Before sailing, he said, "I am interested in the comparative physiology of the whale and the body mechanism which enables this curious mammal to lead a submarine existence. This research is connected with the problem of studying whale meat as a possible food, because the character and composition of whale muscles are adapted to the requirements of its underwater existence."

He said there were indications that as indirect consequence of this submarine adaption, the proteins of whale meat are of exceptional value for growth in comparison with the meat protein of land animals.

Case said the Balaena is equipped to handle a catch of 1,500 whales during her long cruise. A research team will make a detailed study of the catch. It will test the meat for palatability and study its acidity and nitrogenous extractives, which are the chief constituents of meat extracts. Separate records kept by the inspector of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries and by the biologists of the discovery committee will assure the complete documentation of the huge catch.

Case said it is hoped that information obtained in conjunction with data collected by inspectors of other vessels may enable an accurate estimate of the characteristics of lean meat of the present whale population in the Antarctic.

The 15,000-ton Balaena, the most modern whaler factory ship afloat, is equipped with radar to locate the underwater mammals. The Balaena will act as mother ship for fleet of 10 whale catchers. The largest contains one of the largest whale oil producing plants and is fitted with the most elaborate by-products plant yet installed in a whaler.

Quick Freezing Provided

A quick-freezing plant has been installed to freeze the choicest cuts of whale meat for human consumption. The frozen meat will be stored in the ship or transferred to refrigerator vessels.

Three amphibious walrus aircraft have been installed for use in spotting whales and reporting on weather and ice conditions. Test Pilot John Grierson will be in charge of air operations. He has been assigned to prepare a report on the practical use of aircraft in whaling expeditions.

Eighty members of the crew of 550 are British. The remainder are Norwegians under the command of Capt. Reider Pedersen.

PREMIER OF GREECE HAS UN COMPLAINT

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Nov. 29 — Premier Constantin Tsaldaris is scheduled to fly to New York Sunday with the presumed aim of laying before the United Nations a complaint that Greece's northern border has been violated in continuing fighting between Leftist bands and Greek troops.

Passage for him, his wife and two assistants was booked with TWA yesterday.

The Greek government has repeatedly asserted the bands have been supplied from within Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

(The Greek information office in London said Monday that a formal complaint would be made to the UN security council.

(In Sofia yesterday, Georgi Dimitrov, Bulgaria's new Communist premier, told the grand national assembly his government "categorically rejects the slanderous accusations * * * that bands from Bulgaria have penetrated Greek territory."

(He said he stood for "a just and worthy peace with the United Nations, sincere collaboration with all neighbors, including the Greek people" and "continuous friendship with the Soviet union.")

In western Macedonia, Joseph C. Goodwin of The Associated Press reported troops had retaken Mandhalso and Mavros from a band which had held the towns 24 hours, killed 24 villagers and burned 40 buildings. He said the mayor of Mavros told Greek officers the band was composed of Serbs and Bulgars.

Arms Inspection One of Toughest Problems for UN

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Just before V-J day a strange open letter appeared in the Washington Post explaining to the Japanese what "unconditional surrender" meant and disabusing their minds of the "utter destruction" fears their militarists still were seeking to implant.

Informed circles immediately spotted the letter as something out of the ordinary, as, in fact, an official communication designed to be picked up and communicated to Tokyo, and fingers began to point at Capt. Ellis M. Zacharias of U. S. naval intelligence, then assigned to the office of war information. Zacharias had been trying for some time, using information gathered during many years, to reach the Japanese through psychological warfare.

The revelations by Japanese after the war, and of the Pearl Harbor investigation, soon had people talking about him as one of the major factors—along with atom bombs, B-29's, Halsey's and Mitscher's carriers, Nimitz and MacArthur, and the submarine experts—in avoiding an invasion.

Writes Book

Now Zacharias has written "Secret Missions," a book which makes its appearance today, that is a most interesting contribution to postwar understanding of how things go in this world, and a warning of the necessity for improved peacetime military intelligence.

He goes back long before the war for incidents of Japanese, German and Russian espionage in America, and describes years of work which he contends led up to an accurate analysis of Japanese intentions in 1941 which, had it not been more or less ignored, might have prevented Pearl Harbor.

But, although Zacharias never mentions the subject himself, the book also contains some lessons on a very lively current problem.

The United States has proposed to yield the secrets of atomic power to international control whenever an effective inspection system has been set up to prevent its military use.

The problem of military inspection is inherent in other issues before the United Nations. The British have just failed to get it used as a check on the veracity of forthcoming reports on the size and deployment of armies. It undoubtedly will come up again in any discussion of disarmament. It is obvious that it is going to be one of the reliances in whatever peace machinery is evolved.

Prime Factor

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's statement yesterday accepting the principle of internation inspection machinery along with other statements in this field make it certain it will be one of the prime factors in discussions.

Zacharias' story serves to emphasize the necessity for extreme care before the safety of the United States is left to international inspection.

He apparently makes the point unwittingly, and drives it home, oddly enough, while quoting Franz Von Rintelen, famous pre-Nazi German secret agent, on the general practices of espionage.

Von Rintelen, says Zacharias, once pointed out that the United States in those days made virtually no effort to hide its military developments, but added, and this is the point of such significance to planners of international inspection systems:

"The United States is too vast * * * with developments going on simultaneously at distances of thousands of miles, interrelated as they are and requiring simultaneous observation * * *. It would require hundreds of highly qualified agents * * * and no intelligence service can afford to concentrate such a huge army * * * in any one country."

Von Rintelen also pointed out that peacetime military activity bears little relation to the sudden developments and expansions of wartime, and concluded that ultimate failure is always the lot of espionage in the United States.

This country is not unique, in these respects, among the areas which will be subject to any international inspection plans.

"YES" MEANT A LOT. Because Lillian A. Schlau, former U. S. Army nurse, said "yes", Walter Ernst will not have to return to his home in Zurich, Switzerland, where they met during the war. COURT WON'T BLOCK JEWISH DEPORTATION

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Nov. 29 — The Palestine government's high court today rejected an attempt to prevent deportation of nearly 4,000 uncertified Jewish immigrants to Cyprus, and it was announced officially that three British troopships would leave immediately with the refugees.

Speculation arose that the court decision might cause underground violence, dormant for 10 days, to flare anew. A Jewish agency spokesman, denouncing the ruling as "legal absolutism," said it had caused rising tension in Palestine.

The Jewish community council here appealed to all Jews to keep three minutes of silence at 3 p. m., halting all business and traffic, in sympathy with the deportees.

The court discharged a habeas corpus writ granted Monday to Jewish lawyers, who had filed an action demanding the Palestine government show cause why the refugees should be deported.

The Jews arrived off Palestine without immigration certificates aboard the rickety freighter Lochita.

Pauley Would Strip Japs of Sea Power

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Edwin W. Pauley, U. S. reparations commissioner, proposed today that Japan be stripped to a remnant of her once-powerful merchant fleet and otherwise sharply curbed for domination of east Asia as a barrier against future aggression.

Pauley's recommendations, sent to President Truman and passed on to congressional foreign affairs committees, are expected to form the basis of United States policy at an 11-nation reparations conference early in December.

Columbus Street Lights Burn; Stores Dimmed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 29—Street lights burned brightly but for the first time since soft coal production stopped, store windows and advertising signs were dark in Columbus last night.

The limited lighting came to the state capital 72 hours after the government order for such action became effective in 21 states.

Mayor James A. Rhodes had ignored the order previously. He said, however, that street lights would not be affected as a protection to the public.

In Circleville, Mayor Hen H. Gordon said city council had no power to compel observance of the dimout order. It was said the order was not being observed in that community.

Coaxial cable has been used successfully for transmitting wide-band high frequency color television images between New York and Washington.

REPORT GIVES SEWER COSTS

City Engineer Estimates 10 Projects Will Amount to $83,387.

A total of $83,387.27 will be expended here on 10 sewer projects, it was estimated by City Engineer Frank S. Cathers in a report which he presented to the city council at its last meeting.

Cost to property is estimated at $56,610.60 and cost to the city at $26,776.67.

Estimates on separate sewers were listed as follows: Bennett street, city $8,444.50, property $5,-496.46, total $13,940.96, laterals $2,755.63; Nye street (north), city $2,752.11, property $3,342.28, total $6,794.38, laterals $882.28; Nye street (south), city $1,597.10, property $9,524.78, total $11,121.88, laterals $2,499; Glad street, city $412.54, property $4,673, total $5,085.64; laterals $1,099.20; Fies avenue, city $12,086.62, property, $11,027.40, total $23,114.02, laterals $3,252.60; Patterson street, city $1,350.79, property $7,406.86, total $8,757.65, laterals $887.20; Patten street, city $1,785.98, property $3,475.10, total $5,261.08, lateral $657.20; Smith street, city $792.69, property $8,553.84, total $9,346.53, laterals $1,564.84; Fahey street, city $32.54, property $1,794.78, total $1,827.32, laterals $522.50; York street, city $21.80; property $1,116, total $1,137.80.

High costs to the city of the Bennett street and Fies avenue sewers is explained by Cathers by the fact that those sewers are to be used as an intercepting sewer from the proposed Clinton street sanitary sewer to the Columbia street storm sewer. It is a 15 inch sewer, he noted, and is larger in size than would be necessary to serve the property on the two streets. Because of that, $18,573.67 from the general improvement fund is being supplied by the city.

The Patterson and Patten streets sewer costs being borne by the city include $1,536.50 assessed against 350 feet of the old city dump lot.

Cost to the city for two per cent of the total cost plus cost of intersections and excluding the amount supplied from the general improvement fund was listed at $8,203. Cathers suggested that bonds be issued to raise the money for the city's portion.

MRS. IVAH OWEN HEADS LA RUE CHURCH CIRCLE

Other Officers Elected In All-Day Home Meeting.

Special to The Star

LARUE—Election of officers was held when the Methodist Golden Hour Circle met last week with Mrs. George Raub with Mrs. Earl Ballinger and Mrs. Flora Alt as associate hostesses. Mrs. Ivah Owen was elected president with Mrs. Edgar Lightfoot, vice president; Mrs. S. W. Fields, secretary; Mrs. Don Greer, treasurer; and Mrs. Raub, spiritual life secretary.

The all-day meeting featured sewing for circle supply work followed by a dinner at noon with business session and a program in the afternoon. A gift of $10 was voted to Booth Festival and the group voted to send their Christmas box to South Side Settlement in Columbus. A Christmas exchange was decided for the December meeting.

Mrs. Vergie James was welcomed as a new member. The worship service was given by Mrs. Ray Spracklin and Mrs. J. S. Mulvaine was in charge of the program. Papers were presented by Mrs. S. W. Fields, Mrs. Jesse Hastings, and Mrs. C. A. Hutchison and a reading was given by Mrs. Mulvaine.

Installation of officers will be held and a Christmas program will be given at the general meeting of the LaRue Methodist W.S.C.S. at 7:30 p. m. Dec. 4 at the church.

Marion Contralto To Sing in Columbus

Miss Alicia Zachman, contralto, will be heard in a candlelight recital to be given in the Fourth Lutheran church in Springfield, Sunday at 4 p. m., by Jeanne Scott, teacher of singing. Miss Zachman, who is now making her home in Columbus, is the daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Zachman of the Lust road. Edwin Stainbrook of Columbus, will be the accompanist and the assisting artist will be H. Leroy Lynn, organist.

Miss Zachman will sing the aria; "But the Lord Is Mindful of His Own," from the oratorio "St. Paul," by Mendelssohn, "Vergin Tutto Amor," Durante. "Wir Wandelten," Brahms, "Vergeblisches Standchen," Brahms, "Du Bist Die Ruh," Shubert, "A Singing Girl of Shan," Barnett, "Into Your Garden," "Think on Me," Scott and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes."

Central Ohio Baptists To Come Here for World Mission Rally

Large delegations from Baptist churches throughout north central Ohio will come to Marion Thursday next week for a huge rally. The meeting will be held in Trinity Baptist church at 8 p. m. and an overflow crowd is anticipated, Rev. J. B. Holloway, host pastor, said this is one in a series of more than 200 similar rallies being held this fall and winter throughout the territory of the Northern Baptist convention from Maine to California in the interest of the World Mission Crusade. The Northern Baptist branch of that denomination, along with many other denominations, is currently engaged in raising huge sums of money for post war expansion of missionary programs, rehabilitation of schools, colleges and mission stations that have suffered great loses during the war, and for world relief. The Baptists have set a goal of $14,-000,000 to be raised during this crusade, plus an additional million dollars for immediate relief, $900,000 of which is to be raised in Ohio.

The main speaker at the rally will be Dr. Luther Wesley Smith, national director of the World Mission Crusade, and executive secretary of the Northern Baptist Board of Education and Publication with headquarters in Philadelphia. Others appearing on the program will be Rev. John W. Poorman, Ohio director of the Crusade, Dr. Paul Judson Morris, executive secretary of the Ohio Baptist convention, Rev. George Terjung, rally chairman for the Mt. Vernon association, Rev. Albert L. Linder, rally chairman for the Mansfield association, and Rev. Donald Hobbs, moderator of the Marion association. Rev. Holloway, pastor of the host church and general chairman of the rally committee, will preside. Representatives from various choirs in this area will join with the Trinity choir in providing special music.

NAZI DOCTORS ARRAIGNED

George T. Geran Dies Suddenly

and Rnems, a point where the Germans were expected to make a supreme effort to break through to Paris

They did make that attempt but it failed in the face of the iron-wall defense of the Americans and their allies

The 166th Infantry including Mr Geran and his Ohio troops was stationed astride the highway over which the Germans planned to forge their way through to Paris Fighting alongside the 166th was a regiment of D' Alpine chasseurs, a detachment of picked French soldiers

The onslaught of the Germans continued from midnight July 14 to July 18, with the Crown Prince heading the troops launched against the 166th and its associates The Crown Prince was at the head of the Fourth Prussian guards, the Kaiser's own crack detachment

Tide Turns

After three desperate struggles the Germans were finally turned back At that point the Allies changed from defensive to offensive warfare Foch starting his counter offensive at Chateau Thierry on July 18

The 166th, having established a record for fighting ability was moved to the scene of action It went into the front line of the Chateau Thierry sector on July 25, the Rainbow troops relieving the 26th division There the regiment remained in almost continuous conflict until Aug 4, when the Rainbow division, badly battered and with its strength half diminished, was relieved by the Fourth division.

It was in the Chateau Thierry engagement that the forces under Mr Geran went through their most harrowing battle Within 20 minutes, the time required to effect a crossing at the Orque river, 250 of Mr Geran's men were either killed or wounded under the withering fire of the German defense

Only 150 Reach Goal

It was necessary to ascend to the top of a ridge in order to effect a crossing Mr Geran started out with 400 men and only 150 reached their objective. The battle was won at tremendous cost

After being relieved on Aug 4, the regiment spent eight days out of the fighting zone, practically the only rest period of any length during the period extending up to the armistice

Replacement troops were used to fill up the gaps and the 166th, with the rest of the Rainbow division, was sent back into action It went through the St Mihiel offensive and entered the Argonne on Oct 1 for 41 days of continuous fighting. The troops were in front of Sedan when the armistice was signed.

After that, the 166th was with the army of occupation in Germany six months before returning home

Prior to his service in World War I, Mr Geran headed the local company on its trip to the Mexican border when hostilities threatened to break out there in 1916

The fact that he was promoted and commissioned as major during the early part of his service overseas is evidence of Mr Geran's efficiency as an officer having been recognized by his superiors

More convincing than that, however, is the testimony of the men who served under him They classed him, not only as an exceptionally capable officer from the standpoint of military science and tactics, but one who invariably showed personal interest in the welfare and comfort of his men

In Veterans' Organizations

He was a member of the Dyer J Bird Marion chapter, Rainbow Division and a member and past president of the Ohio Rainbow Veterans association, a past commander and member of Bird-McGinnis Post No 162, American Legion, Veterans Post No 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Marion Voiture No 48 40 et Eight.

Mr Geran came to Marion shortly after he was admitted to the bar in 1903 and shared an office with James H Eymon who had been a member of his class at the University of Michigan He continued in the private practice of law until 1919 when he was elected city solicitor, serving two terms He was appointed to serve as city solicitor again in 1927, later being reelected to the office As a result of his experience as solicitor he was regarded as one of the city's best authorities on municipal law His lodge affiliations were with Marion Lodge No 32, B P O Elks, of which he was a past exalted ruler, and the Masonic bodies He was a member of the Marion County Bar association

Born in Warren county Oct. 28 1878 to Mr and Mrs Theodore P Geran, he received his education in the schools of Warren county and later took a three-year course at National university, Lebanon, a school which has since passed from existence

Mr Geran was married Oct 16, 1922, to Mrs Esther Mack, who survives with two sons Robert S Geran of Courtland, N Y, a son by a former marriage, and Dan Geran, at home One sister, Mrs C W Johnson of Petaluma, Calif also survives

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p m Monday at the Merle H Hughes mortuary on Mt. Vernon avenue, with Rev Howard L Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery Friends may call at the funeral home after 10 a m Saturday

Col. Taylor Pays Tribute to Geran

Hubert L. Taylor, veteran of World Wars I and II, who enlisted for service and served in World War I under Captain Geran, in expressing his regret upon learning of the death of his former commanding officer, paid him high tribute "In my 24½ years of service I can say of all the commanding officers I have had, he was the finest" He was not only a friend of the boys during service he recalled, but through the years that followed Mr Taylor received his discharge from service in World War II with the rank of colonel

STOCKS MARK TIME FOR STRIKE OUTCOME

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 29—The stock market today milled through a slightly cloudy session as many potential purchasers held aloof to await developments in the coal crisis

Typical post-holiday sluggishness ruled after a fairly active opening Advances of fractions to a point or so, had a shade the best of the argument near the fourth hour

Modest plus signs were recorded for American Telephone, Southern Railway, Bethlehem U S Rubber, Woolworth, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, J C Penney, U S Gypsum and International Paper Laggards included Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad Northern Pacific, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft and Phelps Dodge

Bonds and commodities were mixed

Supported in the curb were Elliott Co International Petroleum, Solar Mfg and U S Foil "B"

Open Urn Containing Skull of Conqueror

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, Nov 29—While historians stood by as witnesses, government authorities last night opened the crystal and gold urn said to contain the remains of Hernando Cortes, conqueror of Mexico, and pronounced authentic its contents of a skull bones and a rolled document

The document, dated Dec 6, 1836 was found to agree in every detail with a copy possessed by Baeza Y Moreno, one of the four discoverers of the hidden urn

Historians assumed from the date that the urn was removed from its former resting place in the Chapel of Jesus Hospital during anti-Spanish riots of 1823, but was not hidden in the wall of the chapel until 13 years later

The document, signed by church authorities attested to the authenticity of the urn's contents and briefly recounted their history to that date

President Manuel Avila Camacho has ordered the urn turned over to the National Historical and Anthropological Institute for safekeeping

To Broadcast Lessons If Ohio Schools Close

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O, Nov 29—State education department officials disclosed today that they were considering broadcasting school lessons to any children whose classes might be halted by the coal emergency

They said details had not been worked out but that station WOSU at Ohio State university had agreed to make time available, possibly for an hour's program divided into 15-minute sections to cover such basic studies as history, arithmetic and English.

The entire program will be arranged if the coal shortage becomes sufficiently acute to force widespread school closings, officials added

THREAT TO FREEDOM OF PRESS PICTURED

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov 29—The wartime's director of censorship left a warning with American newspaper editors today of coming assaults against freedom of expression—"assaults of such character that press, radio and screen inevitably will be drawn closer together in self defense

Addressing the annual conference of Associated Press managing editors, Byron Price, now board chairman of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, said a little censorship anywhere was a lingering threat to freedom of the press

'No one can afford to feel smug and safe,' asserted the former general news editor of The Associated Press "when he considers the long term lesson of history and the gradual curtailment of liberty as regimentation advances with every generation"

Paul Miller, assistant general manager of The Associated Press and chief of its Washington Bureau predicted that Republicans would eliminate all controls, cut appropriations and some taxes, pass strike control legislation and trim or eliminate the state department's $19 000,000 information program throughout the world

The AP will have a 'larger and better staff" covering capitol activities, Miller said turning its efforts to more interpretative stories by experts who know their fields, and to clearer writing by all staff members

Lukemia Fatal To Richwood Infant

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Nov 29—Mary K Navin, nine-month-old daughter of Mr and Mrs T. W Navin of north of Richwood, died in her parents' home at 4 30 a m today She had been ill two months and suffered from lukemia, a rare blood disease

Born Feb 24 in Marion, she was a daughter of Thomas W and Imo Cates Navin, natives of Marion county. Surviving with the parents are a brother and two sisters, Conrad L Navin, and Jo Lynn and Cheryl Ann Navin Private funeral services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p m. in the Hastings funeral home here by Rev Edward Brewster, pastor of First Methodist church

ERIE TRAIN LEAVES TRACKS AT RITTMAN

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O, Nov 29— Repair crews today cleared away wreckage after 25 cars of an eastbound Erie freight train left the tracks at Rittman, in neighboring Wayne county, and two cars crashed into a house, knocking it off its foundation and rolling one of six occupants out of bed

None of the three couples occupying the house was injured nor were members of the train crew. Acid spilled from a tank car, one of the two which crashed into the house, spread through the basement of the dwelling but was washed away by firemen

Last night's derailment delayed three other freight trains over the Erie's main line, but no passenger trains was held up and traffic was restored over the line at 6 a m today, railroad officials said

Short-Term Senator Draws Labor Measure

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Nov 29—Senator Kingsley Taft of Ohio, Republican, said yesterday he was preparing legislation aimed at "protecting the public against monopolistic strikes that are designed to use injury to the public as a weapon" and would submit it to a party conference for consideration

Taft, short term senator from Shaker Heights, Cleveland, said the bill would make it illegal to "so monopolize the labor of human beings or otherwise induce them to refrain from working as to prevent the supply of any commodity or service to such an extent that severe hardship will be inflicted on the public"

He said enforcement would be through injunction, and if necessary depriving strikers of their rights under the Wagner act

Taft's term will expire Jan 3 He would not have an opportunity to press his legislation unless a special session of the congress was called

Company Stores Closing In Mine Strike Areas

By The Associated Press

WHITESBURG, Ky Nov. 29—Certain stores owned by coal firms in the rich Elkhorn field here were reportedly closing up today until the dispute that has idled 12,000 miners in the area is terminated

A spokesman for the Elkhorn Collieries Co announced the firm's store in Farraday would be closed for the duration of the United Mine Workers strike. A number of stores have been open only part-time since the first of the week If the closing trend continued, it would work additional hardships on the miners, who in most previous walkouts have been extended credit by company stores

At most operations the miners will receive their last pay for work done previous to the stoppage tomorrow. Some firms already have paid off

GUERRILLAS ATTACK

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, Nov 29—Large Communist guerrilla bands have attacked two key points along the Peiping-Tientsin railroad and have hit at another on the Peiping-Kupehow line, government reports said today Nationalist defenses at Antze, 35 miles south of Peiping, reportedly were attacked by 40 Communists who were repulsed after a six-hour battle.

URGE U. S. DEFENSE AGAINST ATOM BOMB

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 29—The Coast Artillery Journal declared today the United States should begin planning without delay its defense against possible attack by atom bombs, air bombardment or biological warfare

The magazine, published by the Coast Artillery Association said defense against rockets although demanding much thought and planning is not yet of general concern ' But it added

"The passive defense against heavy bombardment and possible atomic bomb attacks demands immediate attention as the weapons necessitating this defense are already in existence '

As for biological warfare the article said its potentialities were 'unlimited" and must be considered in any such plan

The journal suggested that a board of officers and civilians should be appointed to recommend preparation on a national scale of such defenses as bomb-proof shelters, dispersion of vital governmental and industry agencies and counter-measures against airborne invasion

Seaman Hurt in Blast Dies on Way to Port

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 29—The Coast Guard cutter Mohawk radioed that George A Legoutte a crew member injured in an explosion that disabled the 10 000 ton tanker S S Chantilly off the Virginia coast, died early today enroute to Ocean City, Md, for treatment

Coast Guard headquarters here said reports of the damage to the tanker were meager but the Mohawk reported the cutter Cherokee from Norfolk, Va had the tanker in tow and presumably headed for Norfolk

The Chantilly sent an SOS last night saying "explosion in the engine room Turbine overrun Ship disabled Oiler badly hurt, leg mangled and bleeding profusely" The tanker gave its position as approximately 160 miles off Chincoteague Island, Va

Utility Co Heads To Help Map Emergency Plan.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Nov 29— Chairman Harold L Mason of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission said today that heads of Ohio power companies probably would be called here for an emergency meeting to discuss power rationing if the coal work stoppage continues another week or ten days '

The utility heads would attempt to devise a program similar to the emergency plan in effect during last spring's 59-day coal strike. Mason said

He added, however, that widespread industrial shutdowns might relieve the power companies sufficiently to enable them to serve residential customers without rationing

Mason pointed out that 75 per cent of the kilowatt hours of electricity produced in Ohio went to industries

INDIANS TO COMPLY

STORE CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZED BY CPA

Scherff Co. Plans To Build Next Spring.

The H. C. Scherff Furniture Co. of 381 West Center street, has received CPA approval for construction of a $26,000 store building at the edge of the city on South Prospect street, according to an announcement today by D. F. Foreman, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Construction of the new building will begin as soon as the weather permits next spring, Mr. Foreman said. The building will be a one-story construction of cement block and will contain approximately 10,000 square feet of floor space. The company will move to its new location after the building is completed, Mr. Foreman said.

Eagles Initiation Held In Honor of Officers

Initiation of a class of candidates was held in honor of the grand, state and local aerie treasurers, and plans were made for a business meeting of Zone 1 of northwestern Ohio to be held here Sunday, when Buckeye Aerie of Eagles, met Wednesday night.

The treasurers are William P. Wetherald of Zanesville, O., grand aerie, Paul Huffman of Tiffin, O., state aerie, and P. H. Neidig of Marion, local aerie. A class of 15 candidates was initiated. Lloyd H. Grundy of Upper Sandusky, director of District 14, was a guest. He gave a short talk and complimented Buckeye Aerie on its membership.

The zone meeting Sunday will get under way at 12 noon with a dinner to be served by members of the drill team of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Guest speakers will be Robert Maxsen of Akron, state president, Harold Snell of Youngstown, junior past state president, Donald Reams of Marion, supervisor of Districts 13, 14 and 9, and William Watson of Zanesville, state trustee.

be closely related to the conclusion of these agreements at the earliest practicable time.

Earlier Australia challenged Russia's proposal with a demand for assurance that any system of UN controls and inspection would not be subject to veto by the Soviet Union and other great powers.

Delegate Norman J. O. Makin, leading off the reaction to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's surprise agreement to international inspections, warned the 54-nation political committee that under present wording "the whole system of control could be made subject to the will of any permanent member of the security council." The permanent members are the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China.

Group of Senators Back "No War" Plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 — A group of senators and leaders of national organizations called upon the Big Three today to break trail for world disarmament by outlawing not only the atom bomb but weapons of all kinds.

In a joint broadside they said that while the United States, Russia and Great Britain all have asked the atomic energy commission for an agreement to prevent atomic war, "each is keeping national armaments which can at any time break the agreement."

"An international law to make aggressive war an international crime is a great step forward," the Thanksgiving testimonial said, "but you can go all the way. You can take away the weapons that make it possible.

"There would be no need for strategic war bases, no more power politics except the powers of peace. * * * Even the talk of war would become only that of dead history."

The signers addressed their message to President Truman, Prime Minister Stalin of Russia and Prime Minister Attlee of Britain. Signers included Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate military committee, Presidents William Green and Philip Murray of the AFL and CIO, Senators Tydings (D-Md), Kilgore (D-WVa(and Taylor (D-Idaho), President William A. Highinbotham of the Federation of Atomic Scientists, President James G. Patton of the National Farmers Union and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former minister to Norway.

Foreign Ministers Speed Peace Drive

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Cheered by the possibility of completing their peacemaking in another week, the Big-Four foreign ministers reached a showdown today on Russia's demand that Yugoslavia be given a greater share than Greece in war reparations to be paid by Italy and Bulgaria.

The council was moving along at top speed. Some diplomats speculated it might wind up the final satellite peace treaty drafts and agree on a German peace study by a week hence.

Officers Honored By O.E.S. Chapter

Mrs. Gail Montgomery, worthy matron and Vayne Golladay, worthy patron, were honored when Lydia Chapter No. 85, Order of Eastern Star, met for a dinner party Wednesday night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. They received gifts from the chapter, and Mrs. Montgomery presented a gift to each of her officers. The presentation of the gifts to Mrs. Montgomery and Mr. Golladay was made by Mrs. Margaret Hall, associate matron, and Arthur Creasap, associate patron. Mrs. Montgomery was also presented a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Lorella Fies.

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and greenery decorated the tables. Mrs. Mary Conyers was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Audience of 300 At Union Service

Approximately 300 persons attended the union Thanksgiving service in Trinity Baptist church Wednesday night. Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, spoke on "Let Us Give Thanks," the host choir sang, and ministers of various churches took part.

An offering of $96.24 was received to be sent to Church World Service, an organization which coordinates the cooperative overseas relief and reconstruction work of the major Protestant churches. "Anyone wishing to make contributions may give them to Adjutant Mary Nisiewicz at the Salvation Army citadel, secretary of the Marion County Ministerial association, Rev. R. W. Faulkner, president of the association, announced. The ministers' organization sponsors the annual union Thanksgiving service.

Rev. Faulkner presided, Rev. E. H. Wierth gave the invocation, responsive reading was led by Rev. Eldred Johnston, Rev. E. M. Hertzler offered the special Thanksgiving prayer and Rev. J. B. Holloway, host pastor, read President Truman's Thanksgiving proclamation. Mrs. Cecil Davis presided at the organ and Mrs. E. H. Moore directed the choir singing the Thanksgiving anthem.

For the basis of his message, Dr. Busler used the account of the healing of the ten lepers by Christ, and of the one who returned to thank Him.

Elks Set Memorial Service for Sunday

Week-end activities of Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks will include a dinner and entertainment Saturday night and the annual memorial service on Sunday afternoon. The members will be joined by their wives and friends for dinner Saturday night and later there will be dancing.

Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, the local lodge will join in the national memorial service. Rev. H. M. McAdow, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, will give the memorial address and music for the program will be by the Silvertone quartet of Wesley Methodist church. The eulogy will be given by Karl S. Kay, district deputy. The service will be held in the lodge rooms.

Santa Cheers Boy Too Ill To See Parade

So that one little boy who was sick and could not get to see the parade might not be disappointed Santa Claus made a special trip to see 3-year-old Tugh Heclo of 390 Blaine avenue this morning.

Hugh had been told by his mother, Mrs. Adeline Heclo, about the trip that Santa Claus was to make to Marion today and he was very disappointed and was crying because he could not go out to see him. The mother called Santa and told him of Hugh's plight and Santa consented to come to see him. The visit was made at 11 a. m.

Following an exchange of greetings Santa told Hugh that he had a hard time getting to Marion because of the lack of snow and he could not travel to his home in his sleigh and had to use the fire truck. Asked what he wanted for Christmas, Hugh said a baby doll, boots and mittens.

Santa after telling Hugh he would see him Christmas, he kissed the boy and left.

After Santa had left, Hugh said he forgot to tell Santa he wanted a sugar plum tree.

His grandmother Mrs. E. O. Hecker, had been reading him a story of a sugar plum tree and the boy liked the story and wanted done.

BILL PROPOSES HIGHWAY PLAN

Senator To Offer Measure for Construction of Super-Road Network.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 29—Ohio super-highways proposed in a bill drafted for early introduction in the next legislature would become the property of the state after bonds issued to finance them were retired, Sen. Ralph A. Winter of Lodi said today.

He explained that under the bill he proposes to introduce the bonds would be sold to the public and retired through tolls paid only by super-highway users in much the same manner as Ohio's toll bridges are operated.

"This is the best way I know for Ohio to obtain highways suitable for present-day traffic needs without cost to taxpayers," Winters said.

He added that enactment of the measure would signal an early start on construction of a proposed 239-mile four-lane highway across northern Ohio designed to link up eventually with the Pennsylvania turnpike which now ends just east of Pittsburgh.

Cost of the northern Ohio super-highway was estimated at $152,280,000 in a preliminary survey by the J. E. Greiner Co., of Baltimore, Md., consulting engineers for the Pennsylvania turnpike.

The engineering firm estimated that an average of 12,000 vehicles would use the Ohio route daily, nearly twice the number necessary to pay off the bonds in 30 years and leave the road toll-free.

Winter's proposal calls for creation of a five-member Ohio turnpike commission to supervise issuance of the bonds and to operate the super-highway which would cross the state near Youngstown, Akron, and Cleveland and Toledo.

The state highway director would be an ex-officio member of the commission and the others would be appointed by the governor for 10-year terms, subject to senate approval. Salaries would be $5,000 annually plus expenses to be paid out of road tolls.

Winter said the bonds would be tax-free in Ohio.

A recently organized Ohio turnpike committee, composed of engineers, contractors, manufacturers and truckers, was told by a Greiner company representative that the northern turnpike could be built in three years.

The committee, headed by Dr. William P. Edmunds of Independence, advocates construction of about 1,000 miles of super-highways to criss-cross the state.

Sees No Politics In N. Y. Shooting

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — The Soviet Ukraine had the assurance of the United States today that two of the United Nations delegates attacked by New York gunmen were not victims of a premeditated political attempt on their lives but only innocent bystanders at a holdup.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, writing Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dimitri Manuilsky yesterday, expressed "personal regret" at the incident but added that "in the opinion of the police commissioner, based upon the evidence by the eyewitnesses, it was not, as you feared, a premeditated attempt to kill two members of your delegation."

Soon after midnight Nov. 21, Gregory V. Stadnik and Alexis Voina of the Ukrainian delegation walked into a $73 stickup in a delicatessen across from their hotel on 58th street and one of two funmen fleeing the place shot Stadnik in the right hip.

Within 24 hours, Manuilsky had written Byrnes that the circumstances led to the belief "that this is not a case of burglary, but a premeditated attempt on the life of two delegates to the assembly of the United Nations."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Hives

ANYBODY who has ever had a really severe case of hives or urticaria will welcome news of any treatment which promises quick and sure relief

Hives cause the skin to break out in red, blotchy swellings, which itch like mosquito bites and sting like nettles. Sometimes, of course, there may be only a few of these swellings but in many cases they are enormous in size, and cover the whole body with the result that where they last for three or four days, as they may often do, the patient is ready to scream with irritation.

It is not easy to treat hives by getting at their cause and eliminating it because so many different things may produce them. Among the known causes are infections, sensitivity to certain foods or to some substance which comes in contact with the skin, glandular disturbance and nervous disorders. In fact, according to Dr. Katharine B. McInnes of South Carolina, no cause at all can be found in about one-fourth of all cases.

About two years ago it was suggested that hives may be promptly relieved in the great majority of cases by the use of vitamin K For example, one physician, Dr. Harvey Black of Montreal Canada, reported in Southern Medicine and Surgery for April, 1946, that he treated 305 patients over a period of four years with vitamin K and found that it gave relief in about two-thirds of the patients in whom all other methods of treatment had failed. In many cases the use of vitamin K prevented recurrences. If a recurrence did take place, repeating the treatment cleared up the rash and it did not return.

Dr McInnes has used the vitamin K in 50 patients, with good results in three-fourths of them As a rule the preparation is given in tablet form by mouth before each meal No reactions to this treatment have been noted

While vitamin K seems to relieve the condition it does not, of course remove the underlying cause of the hives A person who has repeated attacks of hives might well have a careful study made by a physician to determine just what substances may be responsible Knowing this, he may avoid such substances or foods On the other hand, it may be impossible to learn what food or substances produce the difficulty In such cases, the use of vitamin K is of particular value

Ohio Northern GI Village Now Boasts Modern Day Nursery

ADA, O., Nov. 29—Lehr Village, GI colony of Ohio Northern university, boasts a modern Day Nursery. It is in charge of Mrs. John Eckworth, registered nurse, who specialized for more than six years in pediatrics.

Made from a three-room expansible trailer, Mr and Mrs. Eckworth have cleverly and artistically arranged it for the comfort and pleasure of children.

They enameled the walls and have a border of nursery rhyme figures enurely around the three rooms.

Mr. Eckworth, returned GI warrant officer with more than four years' service, has built their table, chairs, swing and ten beds for naps

Mrs. Eckworth accepts children age two to five daily, from eight to four o'clock, except Sundays. Mid-forenoon and mid-afternoon snacks are provided and the noon lunch.

Children of townspeople as well as GI's and faculty will be cared for.

Cabbies Close Successful Season With 19 to 6 Victory Over Columbus Team

Local Semi-Pros Take Early Lead To Snare Holiday Victory from Speedy Columbus Outfit.

By GEORGE ROEST

More than 1,500 persons yesterday afternoon attended the Thanksgiving day classic at Harding stadium, witnessing the local semi-pro gridders end their season by beating the favored 740 A. C.'s, a colored club from Columbus, 19 to 6.

This marked the close of a season for the Safety Cab A. C.'s that has seen them come a long way since their opener with Mansfield in which both teams fought defensively to a 0 to 0 deadlock. This was Marion's fifth win of their first season against seven losses and the opening deadlock. Also it was a little different from their more conventional pattern of play in that once they had gained the lead the issue was never in doubt. Many of the Cabbie contests were exceptionally close affairs with them ending up on the short end of the score at times.

Yesterday the team was keyed up for the contest with a club which had been defeated only once in two years and took advantage of every break to keep the visitors in the hole. Marion scored in each quarter except for the final frame and it was not until they had chalked up their 19th point that the 740 A. C.'s were able to score.

Columbus Champs

The 740 A. C.'s which were the Columbus city champs last season, this year won the title in the Columbus semi-pro American league but were beat out for the championship, 6 to 0, by the St. Clair Boosters, winner of the National league race.

Credit for the win can be given every member of the Cabbie squad, not only the ones who got into the engagement but the ones who rode the bench because all were members of the squad which brought a successful semi-pro team to Marion.

Quarterback Ed Simmons was the key man in the Cabbie attack completing five passes for 105 yards, two of them for touchdowns, and setting up the other Marion score by reeling off a 14-yard gain to the one-yard line. Max Roseberry played his usual heads up game and by being the recipient of Simmons' T.D. passes remained the high scorer for the Marion club.

Statistically the two teams were evenly matched, Marion gaining an advantage in the total net although the 740 A. C.'s gained the greater amount of yardage both on the ground and in the air. Columbus gained 85 yards from scrimmage against 80 for Marion and 113 yards in the air against 105 for Marion. Columbus lost 52 yards from scrimmage and Marion only 21, thus giving them a total net of 146 yards while the Cabbie total was 164. Both teams gained seven first downs.

Marion's initial score early in the first quarter after both teams had had possession of the ball once. Hughes of Columbus went back to punt from the Marion 47, but the pass from center was bad and Roseberry recovered on the Columbus 32. Ivey lost three and Roseberry stood unnoticed along the west side line. Simmon's passed, Roseberry receiving in the vicinity of the 22 and scooting into the south end zone. Harvey's kick was blocked.

In the second quarter Marion drove to the Columbus 1 after Belnap intercepted a pass on the Columbus 23 and ran to the 11. Columbus gained the ball after Ivey missed a first down by inches and after two plays Willis from the 6 punted to Belknap on the Columbus 30 for a 11-yard runback. Roseberry caught another touchdown pass but Marion was penalized 15 yards. Simmon's tossed one to Gilmore that was good to the 15 and Simmons' attempted one to Roseberry. On the next play Marion gained a first with goal to go as a result of Simmons' sneak to the one. Simmons went over but both teams were off sides and on the next play Harvey crashed into pay dirt. Harvey attempted the placement which was wide.

Marion's final score was set up by the Columbus player who caught one of Willis' punts on the Columbus 26. Because of this a 15-yard penalty was inflicted putting Marion in possession on the Columbus 11. Simmons winged one to Roseberry in the end zone and Harvey's kick bissected the uprights.

Columbus was able to draw blood in the third quarter when after gaining the ball on the Marion 25 they lost to the 45. Fullback Edwards passed to right half Morgan who took the pass on the 30 and cut around the Marion defenses racing down the west side line to cross the north goal line. Quarterback Nobel was smothered when trying to crack the line for the point.

Fast Fight Is Aired on WMRN Tonight

Charlie "Lulu" Costantino (above) of New York goes after his ninth straight victory when he faces Philadelphia's Eddie Giosa in Manhattan tonight. This lightweight headliner is billed for ten rounds.

Formerly an outstanding contender for world featherweight honors, Lulu (The Candy Kid) is now rated among boxing's foremost 135-pounders. One of the cagiest boxers in action today, he knows all the tricks of the beak-busting industry and possesses terrific speed.

On the other hand, Giosa's tough! And, as they say in cauliflower circles, he's completely willing. He tears right in and keeps hammering away. Chester Rico, Roman Alvarez, Johnny Dell, Pat Scanlon are included on his list of victims.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMRN (1490 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

Harding Opens Court Season Tonight

Harding's courtsters will go into action tonight in their first game of the 1946-1947 basketball season entertaining Delaware Willis on the Edison floor. The night's activities will be opened with a reserve game at 7 o'clock and the varsity tilt will follow at 8.

As the teams line up tonight both will have incentive to win. Harding because it wants to repeat its victory of last season over Delaware, while the visitors will have the motive of revenge to incite them to victory.

Delaware will have the advantage in experienced material tonight being able to start a completely veteran lineup while Harding's main advantage will be that they will be playing in friendly territory.

Neither team should have a great height advantage and the victory may well depend upon which squad first can overcome the opening game jitters. Delaware plans to use a figure eight offense while Marion has been working on working the ball down the floor with short fast passes and then concentrating on getting a clear shot at the bucket.

In last year's contest Harding was able to down the Panthers 38 to 27 and then went on to finish their season with a record of four won and eight lost while Delaware ended their season with a record of four wins and 14 losses.

Harding will be coached this year by their veteran mentor, D. N. Bohyer, assisted by Kenny Somerlot, who also preps Edison's football and cage squads. Delaware is preped by Ray Overturf, who is in his first season at the school after spending three years in service.

In carrying 18 men on his varsity and reserve squad Coach Bohyer has practically all the boys with him who have turned out for the team this season while Coach Overturf has pared a turnout of 65 hopefuls down to 15 men on each the varsity and reserve squads.

The reserve contest will see Delaware starting a team that is predominantly sophomores while Harding has eight juniors on the squad.

Only Two Games Played In Major Pro Grid Loops

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Thanksgiving day, in former years productive of crucial gridiron contests among the professionals, furnished only two games yesterday, and neither caused even a slight stir in the respective championship races of the All-America conference and National league.

In the junior pro circuit, the New York Yankees, who had clinched the eastern title two weeks ago, tuned up for their Dec. 22 championship game against Cleveland, the western champion, by romping over the oft-beaten Brooklyn Dodgers, 21-7.

In the only National league clash, the Boston Yanks, cellar occupants in the east, drubbed the Detroit Lions, western tail-enders, 34-10.

YANKEE STAR TRIO OF INFIELDERS SIGN CONTRACTS FOR 1947

DiMaggio, Keller and Henrich Come to Terms with Larry MacPhail.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—The New York Yankees' great outfield trio of Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller and Tommy Henrich, which led the Yankees to three straight pennants from 1941-'43 before it was broken up by Uncle Sam, headed a list of 14 Yank players who have signed contracts for the 1947 season.

In making the announcement yesterday, President Larry MacPhail disclosed that he had sent out "about 25 contracts" and that no player has been asked to take a cut from last year's salary. No salary figures were announced.

"However," he added, "we still have some 25 more contracts to send out and I'm sorry to say that several players have been asked to accept a reduction in salary. But no material cut has been made. I believe if it is necessary to slash a player's salary considerably, he should be traded off to some other club."

The signing of DiMaggio came as somewhat of a surprise to most listeners who had believed that DiMaggio, reportedly paid $42,500 in 1946, would be offered a lower rate for next year. The star centerfielder has his worst season at the plate last year failing to hit over .300 for the first time in his big league career.

Among the other 11 who have signed on the dotted line are Shortstop Phil Rizzuto, second baseman George Stirnweiss, and catcher Aaron Robinson of the regular squad. Bobby Brown, star rookie who received a reported $35,000 bonus for signing with the Yanks last spring and was sent to Newark where he finished as runner-up in the International league's batting race, also has signed.

Cincinnati Beats Miami 13 to 7 In Ohio's Top Turkey Day Tilt

By The Associated Press

Two touchdown passes won by a 13-7 score for the University of Cincinnati over Miami of Oxford, and Western Reserve thumped Case at Cleveland 24-0 in Ohio's only Thanksgiving day collegiate football games.

The result was a shock to Miami followers, for the team has been chosen tentatively to play Pepperdine college of Los Angeles in the Will Rogers bowl Jan. 10.

Two Ohio schools played in West Virginia. Xavier's Musketeers of Cincinnati edged out Marshall 27-21 at Huntington, and Wilberforce university tied West Virginia State 13-13.

The Cincinnati victory was a thriller for a Queen City crowd of 30,000 fans. With two minutes to play, sub quarterback Bill Williams of Portsmouth, O., shot a 40-yard pass to end Willie Stargel to put Cincinnati's Bearcats on the visiting Redskins' 30. A couple of line plays moved it to the Miami five, and sub quarterback Tom O'Malley then threw the winning touchdown pass to end Elbie Nickel.

The victory evened the 50-game series between the two southwestern Ohio rivals at 22 games each and six ties and gave the Bearcats' revenge for a 28-14 defeat last season.

Cincinnati's first score came in the opening period on a 10-yard pass from Don McMillan to Alk Richards of Miamisburg, O., who took it on Miami's ten and ran across the goal line.

Ray Giesse of Euclid, O., an end, scored for Miami early in the final quarter by catching a pass from Carl Elberfeld of Greenfield after Tom Cole intercepted a pass by McMillan to give Redskins the ball on Cincinnati's 17.

In the 51st meeting of Western Reserve and Case, 13,000 Cleveland fans watched Reserve overpower the Rough Riders with a three touchdown rally in the final period. A 61-yard end run by fullback Ed Lonjak put the Cats ahead in the first quarter and end Joe Sponseller grabbed two touchdown pases and halfback Bill Bison another for the last period scores.

Bob McQuade, a freshman halfback from Columbus, ran two eight and 22 yards for three of Xavier's scores against Marshall and he passed to Ed Bell for the game-winning touchdown in the final quarter. For Marshall, Jack Chapman sparked the offense scoring once and contributing largely to the other two home team touchdowns.

Wilberforce led West Virginia state 13-6 at halftime, but Maxie Davis ran 25 yards for a third period touchdown then caught a pass for the point which tied the score.

Hogan and Leaders Lagging at Orlando

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 29—Defending champion Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and other big guns of the winter golfing circuit lagged far behind today as second round play began in the $10,000 Orlando open over the tricky Dubsdread course.

The lead was shared by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., former PGA national champion, and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., who battled brisk crosswinds to card six under par 65's in the first round yesterday.

Trailing them with 66's were Art Doering of Chicago and Ray Hill of Shreveport, La. Bunched one stroke back were Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.; Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C., and Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark.

The opening round was not so much an exhibition of dazzling golf as it was a collapse on the part of Hogan and Slammin' Sam Snead, long-driving threat from Hot Springs, Va. Hogan had 73 and Snead carded par 71, a mediocre score for him when cash prizes are at stake.

Akron Bears Set Sights on Title

By The Associated Press

AKRON O Nov 29—Akron's Bears set their sights on the American football league championship today after copping their ninth straight victory

In a free-scoring contest that set a new league mark for tallies, the Bears trampled the Bethlehem, Pa, Bulldogs 54 to 30 yesterday before 6 000 Rubber Bowl fans to wind up the regular season The western division champion offspring of the Chicago Bears meet the Jersey City Giants at Jersey City Dec 8 for the circuit title

Floyd (Schnoz) Wheeler, rampant Akron halfback, tallied a pair of touchdowns and an extra point and won individual 1946 scoring honors in the league with 61 points Former National leaguer Johnny Rogalla of Bethlehem added four conversions to take the runner-up spot with 56

Avenging an early-season 30 to 7 setback by Bethlehem, the Bears exploded for four touchdowns in the opening period and added three additional markers in the second to take a lopsided 40-7 halftime margin Another brace of tallies in the final period sealed the victory.

Fullback George Seith added two touchdowns to Akron's total while right halfback Bill Montgomery paced the Bulldogs with another pair of six-pointers

Shaughnessy Furore Deepens at Maryland

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE PARK, Md, Nov 29—Clark Shaughnessy declared today he never did say "a lot of people would refer to some of these boys as bums" in speaking of his University of Maryland football team.

The old master of the T-formation conceded he was correctly quoted by yesterday's Washington Post—in a story carried by The Associated Press—that "there are some boys on this team who would have been fired a long time ago by another coach for their personal conduct."

The statements were attributed to Shaughnessy by the Post in a story which said he would be relieved of his coaching job at the end of the season.

Shaughnessy further denied saying, as the story quoted him, that some ex-servicemen on his team are "all mixed up in the upper story about civilian life" and "think the world owes them everything."

Those were the latest developments in a series flowing over the future of the man who brought the long-dormant "T" to national attention in 1939, when he marched Stanford into the Rose Bowl and a victory over Nebraska.

Now Available to Public at Anson Pickerel's.

Tickets for the annual Harding-St Mary football banquet to be held at the Masonic Temple Tuesday night have been placed on sale at Anson Pickerel's They have been sold in the clubs which are sponsoring the banquet and a number still are available to the general public The price of the tickets is $1 50 and the program will begin at 6 30

The guest speaker will be Sid Gilman, Miami university's head football coach, who will show pictures of some of the games in which his team engaged this year

This banquet is being held to honor the gridders who played for Harding and St Mary football squads this season Members of the squads will be introduced as a body with probably a few remarks from the coaches of both schools and a few of the players

Robert T Mason will act as the master of ceremonies for the banquet and C J Roberts is the general chairman in charge of preparations

This annual affair is sponsored by the Inter Club Council which is comprised of the following service clubs, Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Ys Mens, the Exchange club, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce

Everybody Ready For Army and Navy Game

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 — "We're here and we're ready," said Navy Coach Tom Hamilton as the Middies polished up their grid plays today in last minute preparations for tomorrow's Army-Navy grid classic at Municipal stadium

"We're not up to full strength but we're set to play a full ball game," the Navy mentor said, inferring that Army—a step away from its third unbeaten season—may have a busy day with the Middies

Army Coach Earl Blaik reported his empire squad was in excellent physical trim

The outlook was not quite as optimistic on the part of Navy's coach as Hamilton announced that Joe Bartos, regular right halfback, will definitely be out of the game In addition, Hamilton said it was very doubtful whether Bill Hawkins or Bob Van Summern, Navy's other backs, would see action. They are recovering from leg injuries.

Programs on the Air

NEW YORK, Nov 29—Climax for the networks' fall football season comes Saturday in two games, Army-Navy on a single network and Notre Dame-Southern California on three, at least in the closing periods. The broadcasts start at:

1 25 p m—Army-Navy at Philadelphia, NBC

2 15 p m—Notre Dame-Southern California at South Bend, Ind., CBS and MBS, with NBC picking up after Army-Navy.

ABC is not now carrying football, having transferred attention to opera from the Metropolitan stage in New York, where Saturday's production of "Tristan and Isolde" scheduled to run from 2 to 6, an hour longer than usual.

Coming up tonight MBS 9 30 Bulldog Drummond at a new time, taking a former Spotlight Bands assignment. NBC 11 30 Great Novels drama changed from "Jean Christrope" to Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," which will be presented in six episodes.

CBS said was done as an experiment," but most everybody else attributed the fact that Frank Sinatra put on his broadcast from New York this week without the usual studio audience to a desire to eliminate from home loudspeakers the over-enthusiastic reaction of bobby-soxers. More often than not this evidence was female screeches. Whether the same play will be followed in subsequent broadcasts remains to be determined. Sinatra recently has been doing most of his programs from Hollywood, but has come east again for a five-week hotel engagement.

Bill De Lancey, Star Baseball Rookie, Dies

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov 29 — Bill De Lancey, one of the most promising young baseball catchers ever to go up to the major leagues only to have his career cut short by failing health, died last night at his home here after an extended illness.

Death came for the former St Louis Cardinal and Columbus, O backstop on his 35th birthday—Thanksgiving day.

De Lancey skyrocketed to baseball stardom in 1931 when, as a 22-year-old rookie he won the first string catching job with the Cardinals.

De Lancey caught all seven games in the 1934 World Series when the Cardinals topped the Detroit Tigers, four games to three and he chipped in with a home run to help the Red Birds cause.

Johnsville Defeats Iberia Team, 42-33

Johnsville, entertaining Iberia set them down 42 to 33 last Wednesday night. Iberia's Hendershot was the pace offer in scoring with a total of 15 points while high honors for Johnsville went to Donnelson with 11 points. Another of the loosing cagers, Mann, ranked with the scoring leaders in totaling 11 points in the reserve contest Johnsville gained a 22 to 14 win over Iberia.

Cornell Loses, but Scares Penn

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 29—Cornell, Colgate and Texas made the departures of their 1946 football schedules Thanksgiving day.

While Cornell's Big Red lost to Penn at Philadelphia, 26-20, after scaring the daylights out of the Quakers, the game was one that Ed McKeever, who is leaving Ithaca after two seasons, can point to with pride.

The husky Penn forces were expected to trample McKeever's crew, but Cornell drew first blood, scoring the first time the Red put the ball in play from scrimmage and adding two more touchdowns in the final period after the Quakers thought they were out of danger. By losing, Cornell lost the mythical Ivy league title. The championship goes to Yale which has 4-1-1 record.

ed the venerable Dana X Bible touchdowns. They did just that with a going-away gift in a 24-7 victory over Texas A and M Bible, who steps out of the coaching ranks after 24 years, saw his team—rated No 1 in the nation in mid-October — salvage a third place in the Southwest conference standings after an in-and-out season.

Andy Kerr's Colgate Red Raiders came through in storybook fashion to make his exit from the grid picture a pleasurable one. The Raiders were trailing Brown 7-0 going into the third period. Between halves Kerr pleaded with his charges to go out and get three touchdowns. They did just that and won 20-14.

Arkansas, already assured of being for the lead in the Southwest conference, was beaten by Tulsa 14-13 despite a two-touchdown rally in the second half. The victory seemed certain to keep Tulsa in contention for a bid to its sixth straight bowl appearance.

The University of Kansas wound up its most successful season in 16 years with a 20-19 triumph over Missouri's Big Tigers.

The victory gave the Jayhawkers a tie with Oklahoma for the Big Six crown. Each team has four victories and one defeat.

In the Southern conference William and Mary trounced Richmond 40-0 to gain the runner-up spot to North Carolina's champions and win the Virginia state title. Wake Forest showed under a crippled South Carolina crew 34-0, Virginia Tech downed its traditional rival, VMI, 20-7 and David-on beat Furman 13-7.

Kenton Beats Upper 41-28 in Cage Game

Special to The Star

KENTON, O Nov 29 Kenton High school, the underdogs, in their basketball fray with Upper Sandusky Wednesday evening at Kenton, turned on a scoring splurge in the third quarter that won them the game 41 to 28.

The Kenton defense worked smoothly and to Upper's disadvantage while the Wyandot-co boys found the height of Hall Brown and Gust of Kenton to their disadvantage under the basket and on the rebounds.

Brown was high scorer for Kenton with 13 points followed closely by Brooks Kenton's five foot three inch guard who scored 12.

The Upper Sandusky reserves in a close contest bested the Kenton junior varsity 30 to 28. Mason with 10 points lead the scoring for Upper while Dick Latimer with 10 was high for Kenton. The score by quarters

Irish Looking For Undefeated Season

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 29—One of Notre Dame's greatest defensive teams is favored to wrap up the first undefeated Irish season since 1941 in the finale of a nine-game campaign against Southern California before a sell-out crowd of 46,000 here tomorrow.

The iron-ribbed once-tied Irish have yielded only 18 points this season—and these three touchdowns were counted in desperation thrusts against reserves by Illinois, Purdue and Iowa.

If Southern California has what it takes to do what mighty Army Navy, Northwestern, Tulane and Pittsburgh failed to accomplish—trod Notre Dame pay dirt—it doesn't show in the Trojans' record.

Jeff Cravath's Men of Troy, in dropping three of eight starts, twice were blanked, by Ohio State, 21-0, and Oregon State, 6-0.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I WAS glad that my father had commanded Jim to stay in the library, while Katie sped to the kitchen to get Harry Underwood's supper on the dining room table.

Jim usually is most indulgent to his flamboyant, effervescent but sterling wife. But he can be sternly reproachful on occasion, and I knew that in his eyes, interrupting my father was a cardinal crime. If he had been allowed to go into the kitchen with her, she would have had the enormity of her offense depicted in no uncertain terms, and Katie was too unstrung by my father's stern reproof to stand any further discipline.

I wondered if my father also had thought of that possibility, decided that he had when his eyes, meeting mine, held a distinct twinkle in them. I felt my spirits rising. If he could feel amusement, then the emergency, whatever it was that he was expecting, could not be so grave as I had feared.

The Next Instant

But the next instant I scored my own lack of understanding. I remembered that my father thrives upon danger, rises to great and dangerous emergencies with aplomb and apparently light-heartedness. He permits no deviation from discipline on the part of his aides, but he is not above betraying his own high spirits with a quip of speech, a quirk of his lips, or a twinkle in his deeply set eyes.

"Sit down, Jim," my father said, and our faithful farm helper had no sooner taken a chair at the farther end of the room than "Mr. K." came back with Junior and Roderick following him.

"Sit down, boys," my father said graciously. "That was a good stunt you did tonight at that chess table. I am grateful."

That Was Nothing

"Shucks, that was nothing," Junior said. "And it was Mother who thought of it."

"She usually thinks of things," his grandfather said smiling. "But now, I have to tell you of some other work which I wish you to do tonight."

Their eyes, glistening with excitement, eyed him with the expression of puppies promised a bone.

"I want you to stand watch with Mrs. Bickett over Mr. Brixton tonight," he said, and smiled at the ecstatic breath they drew.

"Now I will tell you the reason for my request," he said, and proceeded to give them the explanation of danger threatening the farmhouse, of the necessity of keeping their door locked, of opening only to known signals, and of the fact that they might hear revolver shots, but under no circumstances were they to leave their task until given the word.

"Do you understand everything?" he asked when he had finished, and the boy's replies were as one voice.

"Oh! yes, sir, everything."

Stop in the Kitchen

"Then get along with you," he said. "Oh by the way, you'd better stop in the kitchen, and stock up with anything you may think you'll need to eat in the night. You'll have four hour watches, you know, and you may be hungry."

"May be," Harry Underwood commented when the boys gurgling happy. "Oh gees! Oh boys!" and "Thank you sirs," departed kitchenward, "you've saved two lads from dying of starvation before morning."

"I hope so," my father said absently. Then he turned to me.

"There is one thing left undone," he said, "and then I can tell you what all these preparations mean. You have been most patient."

"I trust I am a good soldier," I told him.

"You are," he said, "and here is what I wish you to do. You have a code in which you can tell Sam and Jerry Ticer to keep watch in certain quarters?"

"Yes, I have," I answered.
